Champ Clark
Broken Ambition
A Lady of Chicago
Warning to the Foolish

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1921.

Champ Clark is dead. "Men have died and worms have eaten them, but not for love," says Shakespeare, but men have died brokenhearted by thwarted ambition.

Little more than eight years ago a majority of the delegates at Baltimore had nominated Champ Clark for the Presidency. It seemed settled; then, through tricky politicians, he was beaten. At the last election, due to the Republican sweep, his own friends failed to return him to Congress, where he had worked for more consecutive years than any other member.

Now he is dead, and tomorrow President Wilson, who beat him at Baltimore, retires, broken in health, repudiated at the last election by the whole people, as Champ Clark was repudiated in his own district.

General Smuts of South Africa, comparing President Wilson's retirement with the "close of Hannibal's career in failure and eclipse," quotes Mommsen, "On those whom the gods love they lavish infinite joys and infinite sorrows."

Those that politics has in its grip know infinite worry, infinite disappointment.

Champ Clark represented well the simplicity, strength, honesty and sincerity of the old-fashioned American citizen.

The last words Champ Clark was heard to say were: "The question is on the adoption of the conference report." His work never left his mind. What first words will he say when he wakes up in another world? Has he perhaps already come back to this world in some new-born baby to begin all over again?

Friends of Champ Clark may apply to him Leonardo's words: "Just as a day well spent gives joyful sleep, so does life well employed give joyful death," or Victor Hugo's: "The death of the just is like the end of a beautiful day."

Ladies that kill gentlemen in Chicago do it in interesting fashion. Some write diaries that Elizabeth Barrett Browning herself couldn't write. All shoot to kill. They are more deadly than the male with the revolver, also with the jury.

Mrs. Isabella Orthwein having decided that a lady should stand no more and that the time had come to kill Herbert L. Ziegler, undersored this line of poetry:

"And 'tis not wise to love too well, and this all women know."

Herbert Ziegler knew it also for about a quarter of a second while the bullets were going into his neck and chest.

Chicago, of course, will sustain her reputation for chivalry by letting Mrs. Orthwein free. A little to the southwest of Chicago, where chivalry is even more intense, when a lady shoots a gentleman, distinguished citizens meet her at the railroad station and go her bail.

Some will ask: "Is it just to the young lady herself to have it understood when she shoots and kills that nothing will be done to her?" There must be always some lingering regret after a lady has been, in the words of Mrs. Orthwein's poem, "With velvet paws and clenching claws a tigress roused to slay."

But if men will not make fools of themselves the "tigress with velvet paws and clenching claws" will not get them. And if they do make fools of themselves they must take their chance. The world does not miss them.

Writers of affectionate poetry, psycho-analysts and prohibition officers are interested in the killing by Isabella Orthwein. Before the killing in a public restaurant Isabella and Herbert threw glasses of wine at each other. Later, when it was over, the policeman picked up a half empty bottle of gin on the floor of Mrs. Orthwein's apartment.

In such affairs alcohol seems to be as much at fault as wicked men described in Mrs. Orthwein's poem as "The wolf pack having gorged upon the lamb, their prey." How it would have surprised the wolf in the fable if the little lamb, drinking from the brook below it, had turned out to be a modern 32-calibre Chicago lady lamb.

Back Bay Woman Dives From Window of Her Home; Is Expected to Die

Mrs. Caroline Carlovitz, forty-one years old, is believed to be dying at the City Hospital. Both arms, both legs are broken in several places, her spine is dislocated and she is suffering from internal injuries.

She attempted to commit suicide early today by jumping from a hall window at the Balfour Apartments, No. 28 Westland avenue, Back Bay, to a rear alleyway. She has been ill with a nervous disorder for some time.

She and her husband, James, live in Suite No. 11, on the second floor of the apartment. When her husband left his home early today, his wife appeared in good health and good spirits. A few minutes later she went to a store on an errand.

On her return she saw John Collins, the janitor, and borrowed his keys, saying she had neglected to take her own and was locked out. She returned the keys. Then she walked upstairs to the landing between the second and third floors, opened the window overlooking the alley in the rear of the building and plunged out.

She was then sent to the City Hospital.

British Urge Pope to Condemn Sinn Fein

Rome, March 3.—Cardinal Bourne, archbishop of Westminster and London, arrived yesterday especially commissioned by the British government to persuade Pope Benedict to condemn officially the Sinn Fein. This was learned by Universal Service today from the highest sources.

Vatican circles assert that Count De Salis, the British ambassador to the Vatican, assisted the English Cardinal in trying to obtain from Pope Benedict a general condemnation of the Sinn Fein movement and even a threat of excommunication for participators.

The plan failed, it is asserted, owing to the intervention of Archbishop Cline of Perth, Australia, whose nephew was recently shot to death within the walls of Dublin Castle.

Cardinal Bourne recently denounced the Sinn Fein in a Lenten pastoral in an effort to strengthen the hand of Count De Salis, and was afterward asked by the government to undertake his present mission. It is reported that the matter may be brought up at the meeting of the Consistory.

George Ade says: "Go easy on conversation!" and illustrates the point by relating one case of the girl whose knowing pal tipped off her star recipe in next Sunday's Advertiser.

CITY LOSES SUIT AGAINST STATE FOR MILLIONS

Full Bench Rules Act Appointing Trustees for Elevated Is Constitutional

The bill for $3,905,931.87 brought by the city of Boston against the Commonwealth of Massachusetts was dismissed today by the full bench of the Supreme Court.

This bill sought to recover the amount paid by the city as its proportion of the deficiency of $4,000,000 existing in the operation of the Boston Elevated Street Railway Company for the year 1918 and up to July 1, 1919.

The bill attacked the constitutionality of Chapter 158, Acts of 1918, under which the Governor appointed for ten years five trustees to manage and operate the road for the benefit of the public. The statute also provided that such public operation should continue until the Commonwealth elects to discontinue it.

In its decision, the court said that the statute of 1918 violated no constitutional right of the city of Boston, and the bill set forth no grounds of relief.

WILSON'S APPOINTMENT REJECTED BY TUMULTY

Washington, March 3.—Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the President, today declined appointment by the President as a member of the International Joint Commission. Former Marie Tudor Becomes Bride of Swinburne Hale in Her Fourth Wedding

Divorced Garland and then remarried him.

After death of Garland married Francis Cushing Green.

Divorced Green and married Swinburne Hale.

Mrs. "Pimmie" Garland, formerly Marie Tudor of Boston, and a descendant of British kings, whose predilection for matrimony cost her the income on a fortune of $10,000,000, is married again.

In the well-known society woman, one of whose sons recently spurned his share of the Garland fortune, has married Swinburne Hale, a noted Englishman.

She was the fourth marriage and third husband for the former Mrs. Garland and the second for Hale. In March of 1920 he obtained a divorce from Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, niece of the British actor, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson.

Mrs. Hale's latest appearance in the spotlight of publicity occurred last November, when her son, Charles Garland, refused to accept his inheritance on the ground that he had done nothing to deserve it and that acceptance would not be Christ-like.

Charles today when questioned by the Boston American declared that his determination to refuse the mil-

HOUSEWIFE ALMOST CAPTURES ROBBER

Mrs. Frances G. Blaney Pluckily Grapples With and Routs Daylight Bandit

Mrs. Frances B. Blaney beat off and nearly captured an armed burglar who tried to rob her in her home at No. 7 Brewster terrace, Brookline, shortly before noon today.

The plucky housewife routed her assailant only after a furious two-minute struggle, which began in her living room and ended on the stairs, with the robber in full flight.

A man who refused to give his name was later "held" by Brookline police in connection with the attempted robbery. It was understood that he was suspected of being a "watcher" for the man who entered the Blaney home.

The Blaneys live in the Brewster Apartments in the Coolidge Corner section of Brookline, and Mrs. Blaney was alone, her husband having departed for his office.

She was aroused by a sharp pull at the doorbell ringing with her suite, which is on the second floor, and going to the door, found a well-dressed young man of about twenty-five standing there.

He told her he had a package for her, and showed it. They went upstairs, and as Mrs. Blaney entered her living room the man stepped quickly after, and closed the door.

Producing a revolver, he leveled it at her, and warned her that unless she produced her valuables he would fire.

Instead of obeying him Mrs. Blaney cried out for help and he grappled with her, trying to strike her with the gun.

According to her story to the police her assailant made several attempts to point the gun at her as they fought, but she was able to hold his arm so that it was pointed toward himself.

Mrs. Blaney finally managed to get near the hall door and open it, setting up a loud outcry for assistance.

Other women in the apartment house also began to scream and the frightened desperado made for the street and disappeared rapidly in the direction of Coolidge Corner. It was not long after that the suspect was picked up there.

Mrs. Blaney states that the robber got nothing.

ntinuous evasions of the peace treaty." They were told that they had not paid the money required of them; that they had not supplied the coal in quantities specified by the Spa protocol and that they had not brought their criminals to trial.

"In view of the Germans' disregard of the Paris decision, the allies have decided that the extension of time in which the Germans must pay from thirty years to forty-two years will not now operate," the French communique said.

When the conference opened today Premier Lloyd George told the Germans that France had spent in a year 12,000,000,000 francs on the areas devastated by the invading German armies. The premier recited in detail the damage done both to France and Belgium. He declared that France and England were each bearing annually a burden three times the sum that Germany proposed as the total sum of her war indemnity.

"What you offer is only one-quarter of the sum required to repair the damage in the devastated areas alone, regardless of other war burdens," Premier Lloyd-George told the Germans.

The Premier accused Germany of deliberately violating the treaty of Versailles. He denied the German contention that he desired oppression of Germany, adding:

WOULD HELP GERMANY.

"On the contrary, I regard a free, contented and prosperous Germany as essential to civilization. We were prepared to make every allowance to you, but these counter proposals are an offense and an exasperation and I deplore that they ever were made. The proposals show and make it evident that Germany desires not to discharge, but to evade her liabilities."

The British Premier charged that the German government was insufficiently taxing the German people. Then he recounted all the German infractions of the treaty, including even the clandestine military organizations formed in Germany.

Dr. Simons, German foreign minister, in his reply said that the Germans would study the documents presented by the Allies and deliver their reply Monday.

"The British premier mistakes and misunderstands the intention of the German Government," declared Dr. Simons. "I believe there will be no necessity for such action as is contemplated (by the Allies)."

The meeting broke up at 2 o'clock. The delegates were grave and solemn as they departed from the palace, particularly Premier Lloyd George.

M. Barthou, the French Minister of War, left for Paris during the day, and it was believed that his sudden departure was in connection with French military plans.

The cards bobbed St. James Palace stood silent as four motor cars bearing the German delegates arrived for today's meeting. Dr. Walter Simons, the German Foreign Minister, and head of the German delegation, was pale and agitated.

CHEERS FOR FOCH.

When Premier Lloyd George and Marshal Foch arrived the crowd broke into cheers.

Dr. Simons consented to pose for a photograph. As he stood before the cameraman he was asked what course Germany would take. Another of the German delegates, replying for the foreign minister, said that no new proposals had been drawn up.

"We can do no more than we have," said this delegate.

It was reported that the Germans had arranged to leave London within thirty-six hours. The management of the Savoy Hotel, where the Germans have been stopping, said that he had been notified by the German delegates that they would depart sometime tomorrow.

lion dollar fortune was unshaken. He said that before his mother went to Europe last Fall she advised him to use his own judgment in making a decision, and to accept or reject the inheritance as he saw fit.

"I still feel," said Charles, "that private property is the main cause of our unrest and unhappiness. I did nothing for the money. I was not even given an opportunity to decide whether I needed it. It is more than any man needs. It might be doing poor people a lot of good instead of accumulating to no purpose.

"As regards my mother's marriage, it has been in prospect for some time, even before she went to Europe. We have had no message from her, but understand she is to return soon. I am still without plans as to what work I shall take up."

INDORSED BY BROTHER.

Hamilton Garland, a sophomore at Harvard, indorsed his brother's views regarding the money, and declared that when he reached his majority he would do the same thing. He said that no reason existed why he should take an advantage over his fellow man. "As I have never done anything to warrant the money, I shall not accept it."

The Tudor-Garland wedding in St. Paul's Church, Brookline, in September, 1893, was the social event of the season. The bride was the daughter of the late Frederick Tudor of Brookline, and a descendant of the last of the Tudor kings. The bridegroom, "Jimmie" Garland, was a multi-millionaire of Boston, famed as a yachtsman. In the Winter the couple lived in their Back Bay residence and in Summer at Hamilton. After six years of married life, during which five children were born, divorce proceedings were instituted, and the wife was granted a decree with $15,000 a year alimony.

After a short time a reconciliation was effected on Garland's yacht, the Barracouta, and the couple were remarried.

Then Garland died, and in his will, dated July 19, 1906, he made the now famous provision that the income of his fortune be paid to his widow as long as she remained unwed.

For six years Mrs. Garland observed the provisions of the will, and then forfeited the income by marrying Francis Cushing Green, her legal adviser. This marriage also turned out unhappily, however, and after a short stay in Europe, Mrs. Garland obtained a divorce.

Then came the acquaintanceship with Hale, which resulted in rumors of an approaching marriage being circulated some time before Mrs. Garland sailed for Italy. Hale is a noted English lawyer and publicist.

Judge Allan G. Butterick, arguing against repeal, said the State should "wait until the Supreme Court tells us what the Volstead act really means."

Charles S. Rackemann, president of the Constitutional Liberty League, urged deferring action "until we can see the effect of the Eighteenth amendment."

Allows Girl of 18 $10,000 a Year

New York, March 3.—An 18-year-old girl needs $10,000 a year for her education and maintenance, according to a decision handed down by Surrogate Foley in the case of Miss Alice Latham, daughter of the late John G. Latham, of the banking firm of Latham, Alexander & Co.

Here is how she convinced the judge: For traveling expenses to Europe, $2,000; wash, $1,000; $500; fur coat and other wearing apparel, $4,000; traveling expenses here, $2,000.

K. C. Schools to Teach Sport Page English

New York, March 3.—The American language is now a thing complete. "Kelly did a Brodie when hurtling into the third sack, his cleats erasing some tarik from Heinie's shins. He was out by a furlong." That is a sample of it.

The language has been created on the sporting pages of American newspapers and it was dragged forth into the light tonight by the Knights of Columbus who announced that "especially on the sport page is found the real American language as it is spoken.

The sport pages of newspapers as text books are an innovation in certain Knights of Columbus night schools giving citizenship courses.

"American sport," Supreme Secretary William J. McGinley declared, "is an important part of American citizenship. Our teachers find sports a fine avenue for introducing Americanization to foreign born students.

"We find that men taking citizenship courses progress much more rapidly if they are given a groundwork in the fermdudogy of American sports. The practice will be introduced into all K. C. schools giving the citizenship course, which is basically a study of the Constitution.

(The class will now recite the account of the ninth laning.)

PUBLICATION OF 'POISON PEN' LETTERS MAY BE SHARON CLEW

FEDERAL OFFICERS IN PROBE

Postoffice Inspectors Hope to Trace Writer by Signature

Sharon, March 2.—Publication in the Boston American today of a portion or two of the defamatory series of letters announcing the formation of "The Sharon Vigilance Committee" to rid "the town of unworthy residents" was hailed by the United States postal inspectors and other investigators at work upon the mystery, as the first tangible, if faint, clew to the identity of the letter writer, whose diatribes have stirred Sharon as nothing else has done for fourteen years.

In the hope that they would be able to trace the writer by means of the signature attached to the letter, the probers switched their efforts into a new channel.

The letter is signed "Mace Hixon" and though this is confessedly a fictitious name, the investigators hope that they may be able to get a line on the writer by identifying his penmanship.

Not for fourteen years, since the time that a similar flock of defamatory epistles were followed by an epidemic of incendiary fires has there been such indignation here.

Three different investigations are underway, in addition to the private probe being conducted by each of the score of persons who received the letters, and by the town citizens named therein as "undesirable."

United States postoffice inspectors were called into the case by a woman, whose name appeared in the letters. Chief of Police McTiernan is conducting the town investigation with the co-operation of the selectmen.

Two letters, differing in detail from each other, were received by citizens of the town. One of them was typewritten on white bond paper, letter size, dated Sharon, February 23, and signed 4th ink, "Mace Hixon, secretary," the name being a misspelling of the name of the constable, Edgar Mace Hixson, who usually signs his name "Edgar M. Hixon."

Not only does Constable Hixson deny any connection with the scurrilous letters, but, according to his son, he has barricaded his residence, with bear traps and arms against interviewers.

In fact after the signature appears the following paragraph absolving Constable Hixson from any connection therewith:

"For the purpose of secrecy, the name of the secretary is anonymous. Only through the utmost secrecy and wide and continued publicity, can we gain results."

The other form of the letter is on light blue flimsy paper, dated from Canton, and is signed with Mr. Hixson's name in tyrm.

There are ten residents named in the letter. With these names omitted the letter reads as follows:

"There has been organized in Sharon a secret society to be henceforth known as the Sharon Vigilance Committee, which has as its objective the banishment of unworthy residents through the medium of wide and continued publicity. They recommend for the betterment of the town that the following people be thrown out:

"——, the Sharon burglar, and his drunken uncles.

"——, the scandal monger, and his tribe.

"——, the drunken ——.

"——, and her drunken brother.

PROMISED ANOTHER.

"——, and the burglars who robbed $400 from Shikes' drug store. This was the first time that —— performed in Sharon, but —— has been arrested for stealing and picking pockets under various names. Pal of ——(naming a clergyman).

"——, the Irish traitor, who drinks more booze (on the quiet) than any man in Sharon, is naturally crooked and a pillar of the church, but good on donations to save his soul from hell.

"——, the notionally known crook, who is now hiding at his home from the Chicago police officials.

"Watch for our additional list, which will be issued after the March 10, 1921, meeting, with additional information.

"This notice is being sent to all Sharon clergy, town officials and over 150 leading citizens. We are at a loss to understand why Sharon should be overloaded with undesirables and take as the most effective means, publicity, to rid them.

"WATCH FOR OUR MARCH 10 BULLETIN WITH ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ON THE ABOVE AND AN AMENDED LIST OF REPROBATES.

"For purpose of secrecy, the name of Secretary is anonymous. Only through the utmost secrecy and wide and continued publicity, can we gain results.

"MACE HIXSON, Secretary."

The list of persons named in the letter sent out today adds additional alleged facts on several of the persons named.

Most of the letters were mailed in large yellow envelopes. Several, however, bore matching borders. They were postmarked from the South Terminal Station, Boston, on the noon previous to their receipt.

The fact that the majority of the names mentioned were Irish is considered a significant fact by the authorities in charge of the investigation, and some of the citizens do not hesitate to brand the letters as British propaganda.

The town meeting taken place March 7, and in some quarters it is felt that the letters were intended as a move against Constable Hixson, who comes up for re-election at that time. His friends believe that by urging his name in the letter Mahommy hoped to stir up political animosity against the constable.

On the other hand, none of the citizens mentioned have political affiliations or seek political office.

Several of those mentioned are natives of the town.

He protested the sentence on the ground that a previous sentence served by him at Atlanta, Ga., covered the penalty of the second crime.

$2,000 BLAZE IN PEABODY LABORATORY

Fire on the third floor of the building at No. 13 Lowell street, Peabody, caused a damage estimated at $2,000 and burned its way through the roof before the firemen were able to gain control of it.

The blaze started in offices occupied by Benjamin Levin as a laboratory. Part of the damage was incurred by the tenants on the other two floors on account of the amount of water it was necessary to pour on the blaze.

CUMMINS SEEKS NEW PROBE OF RAILROADS

Favors Relieving Public From High Fares and Freight Rates

By International News Service.

Washington, March 2.—The country's railroad situation is growing rapidly so critical that it will be certain to demand corrective measures at the outset of the Harding administration and the new Congress.

This was indicated unmistakably today by Senator Cummins, Republican, chairman of the senate interstate Commerce Committee, a joint author of the Esch-Cummins transportation act.

Cummins announced he was engaged on a resolution which would authorize his committee to make an exhaustive investigation of the serious difficulties in which the railroads are involved.

The purpose of the investigation would be to evolve legislation to remedy railroad problems. The operating difficulties with which the railroads are beset are but some of those which must be met promptly, in the Senator's judgment. "If the railroads are to be prevented from drifting into government ownership."

Senator Cummins believes one solution of the situation would be to have the railroads pool the purchase of supplies essential to their successful operation. He is also of the opinion that labor cannot be expected to help "carry on" indefinitely the financial distress from which the railroads are suffering, nor can the United States treasury be called upon for an indefinite period to help the railroads out of their financial difficulties.

RABBI LEVI INDORSES ANTI-BLACKMAIL BILL

Rabbi Harry Levi of Temple Israel, has issued a statement in support of the Burroughs bill for the prevention of blackmail, to be heard before the Committee on Judiciary of the Legislature at the State House this morning. Endorsements of the bill have also been received from the Boston Association of Congregational Ministers, George W. Coleman, leader of the Forum movement, Congressman George Holden Tinkham, Dr. Donoghue of the Industrial Accident Board, and several others. The bill seeks to prevent publication of charges that tend to disgrace a defendant until after he has had a hearing and the court finds some foundation for the charges exists.

How'd You Like to Join the Blue Law Church?

Philadelphia, March 3.—There may be a congregation for the new church to be erected in the town of Berwick, Pa., but it will never be a large one if present requirements for admission even within the doors are retained.

Squire Frank Feistermacher, a staunchest upholder of the Blue Laws in the town, is fathering the plan and announced today that he would erect a church which only those who are pure in heart in every way would enter. Either that, or they will have to be deaf, dumb and blind as well as paralyzed.

Not deterred, however, he has established the keystone of the edifice and expects to break ground for the building which is not to be large, before the end of the present month. He will call the church "The Church of the Nazarene," and says he will welcome all who can qualify.

There will be no collections at the services, and no choir. Neither will there be a minister. The services will consist of mare teaching the Bible, and the squire is to be the teacher.

Restrictions he has laid down upon those who seek to enter are stringent.

No one who uses tobacco in any form may attend services. Neither can any one who drinks anything stronger than milk or water enter the portals. Sunday newspaper readers are barred without exception.

Any one who has ever attended a moving picture show is expelled. Dancers and card players are forever barred from entrance.

MAN CHASED BY VAMP ENDS LIFE WITH ROPE

New York, March 3.—When John Cahill rushed into the office of the chief of police at Hackensack, N. The cops scoffed him some and sent him home, after tecking him up for a few hours to "cool his mind." Yesterday Cahill was found hanging to a ladder under the roof of his home.

Practically the entire membership of both the House and the Senate will be present, in addition it will be attended by scores of noted men in public and private life who were Mr. Clark's devoted friends and admirers.

Harding Wires Sympathy to Mrs. Champ Clark

Marion, O., March 2.—President-Elect Harding upon being apprised of the death of Former Speaker of the House of Representatives Champ Clark, sent the following telegram to his widow in Washington:

"I am deeply grieved to learn of the death of Mr. Clark. I deeply respected his marked ability and his splendid public service and had come to hold him in very affectionate personal regard. I know that all who knew him will join me in washing that your sorrow may be tempered in the consciousness of the country grieving with you.

Malden Kidnaping Victim

Doris E. Johnson, fourteen-year-old Malden schoolgirl, who returned home after a two days' absence and related that she had been abducted and forcibly detained in a shack near Saugus.

A search by William F. Johnson of the district outlying Malden in the direction of Saugus, lasting late into the night and resumed today, has failed to disclose the shack in which Doris Eileen Johnson, fourteen-year-old school girl, claims she was held by abductors.

With the addition of a few more thrilling embellishments, the story of Doris, who started Malden by her return yesterday afternoon after an absence of two days in which the police sought her in vain, remains practically the same, in spite of the inability of searchers to locate where she had spent the time during her absence.

Doris to an American reporter declared that she was kidnaped around nine o'clock Monday morning.

This is her own story of her experience:

"I left the house about quarter of nine to go to school. When I reached the corner of Perry street and Upham street, a young man stepped up to me. He was strictly dressed and talked like a young man who was well educated. At first I did not have anything to do with him and told him to mind his own business. He persisted and followed me along. Finally he asked me if I would not like to ride to school as it was raining. An automobile drove up to the curbing where we were and I got in.

"As we passed the street in which the school is located, I said I must get out as we are beyond the street. The young man said: 'Let's go for a joy ride first.' I said that I would scream if they did not let me out of the car. I started to scream and the man put a towel around my head that had some bad smelling liquid on it. That is all I remember until I woke in a dark room which looked like a hen coop. It was a single room, with a couch made of boxes with a mattress over it. There was one window in it, a table and one chair.

"Sometimes a woman bringing a man came in. He seemed well dressed and was masked. He wore a black mask which covered his face.

"He brought me in some food and when I ate it I felt drowsy and wanted to go to sleep.

"The next thing I remember was hearing the man some in. I said that I wanted to get out, and he said: 'You belong to us now. The place is locked and guarded.'

"I told him that I was going to escape, and he said that I could not.

"Tuesday night I awoke around midnight and made up my mind that I would get out of the place. I saw the window and took up a chair and smashed it. The door was locked.

"I climbed out of the window and started away. There seemed to be a large open space, no trees or houses about. Of course it was dark—about midnight, I should say.

"Although fearfully weak I started to walk, and I recall seeing a large farmhouse. I decided to wait until it was daylight before I asked any direction. My only thought was to get away from the place.

"I walked on and on and finally came to a street which I think now must have been Eastern avenue. When daylight came I saw I was on my way home and I kept going. Finally I reached Ruffum Square which is only a short distance from here. I reached home about 1 o'clock in the afternoon."

While this is the story told by the girl, the police also, who have been investigating her statement, have failed to get any clue which would lead up to the solution of the mystery so suddenly thrust upon them.

The Saugus police likewise have found no information which would corroborate the story told by Doris.

REMOVE NEW BEDFORD LEPERS TO LOUISIANA

Washington, March 3.—Lepers now in hospitals at New Bedford, Mass., and the District of Columbia, will be removed to the Leprosarium at Carville, La., the Public Health Service announced.

BABY KILLED BY FALL AS BRIDE FAINTED

Stepmother of Little Martha Hazen, Somerville, Explains Accident to Police

Twenty-months-old Martha Hazen, whose lifeless body was found in a bedroom at No. 44 Michigan avenue, East Somerville, where her stepmother, Mrs. Grace M. Hazen lay unconscious, was accidentally killed, Medical Examiner McCaffrey stated today.

The statement was made following an interview with the woman at the Somerville Hospital, in which she said that she lost consciousness while caring for the child.

It was also brought out that Mrs. Hazen, who is a bride of four months, was subject to weakness and fainting spells at certain times, although not an epileptic victim.

Mrs. Hazen was taken to the hospital after her husband, Harry B. Hazen, found her lying on the bed, with the body of the child lying on her breast.

She recovered consciousness at midnight, but was not informed of the baby's death. Today Medical Examiner McCaffrey and Lieutenant Dempsey of the Somerville police visited the home and were allowed to talk with the woman.

According to the medical examiner, she said she had been washing in the kitchen of her home yesterday morning, when she heard the baby cry in the bedroom. Mrs. Hazen said she went into the bedroom, sat on the edge of the bed, and taking the child from its crib, attempted to sooth it. She knew nothing of what transpired from that time until recovering consciousness in the hospital.

Medical Examiner McCaffrey said he was convinced the woman had been attacked by a fainting spell while holding baby Martha. He believed that she fell back on the bed and the child rolled from her lap to the floor, striking on the right temple, which was bruised.

HINT McCARTHY IS WAITING FOR MARCH 4

Agent Will Not Appear Until Gallagher Is Succeeded, Is Boston Belief

Is William J. McCarthy, prohibition supervisor, playing a waiting game before appearing before the Federal Grand Jury relative to his charges of attempted bribery.

In some quarters it was suggested that McCarthy might not make his whereabouts known until Daniel J. Gallagher had been relieved as United States District Attorney. Gallagher's successor is expected to be one of the early appointees after the Harding administration is inaugurated.

"I do not believe that I will be relieved as United States district attorney until a successor has been appointed," said Gallagher, in discussing a report that his official position would end automatically with the change in administration at noon, March 4.

"I have not looked up the law on it, however, and don't expect to. I am too busy with matters before the Grand Jury."

MORGAN TO TESTIFY.

One of Gallagher's assistants, Lewis Goldberg, was more positive on Gallagher's status, however.

"The law is quite clear," he declared. "It provides that the United States Attorney is not relieved until his successor has been named."

Herbert A. Horgan, special assistant to the Attorney-General for Massachusetts liquor cases, was expected to be one of the first witnesses when the grand jury reconvened at 10 a. m. today.

Horgan has been closely associated with the raising McCarthy since January in the pursuit of liquor law violators.

Meanwhile United States marshals of Boston, New York and Washington were continuing their search for the prohibition officers.

In some circles the impression was prevalent that McCarthy was in Boston.

District Attorney Gallagher said he received a telegram from the United States marshal at Washington stating that information there led him to believe that McCarthy was in this city.

Referring to the specific instance of alleged bribery attempted which Frank W. Lanagan, assistant prohibition supervisor, said the district attorney had evidence of for several months without prosecuting, Gallagher said:

BRIBERY UNSUBSTANTIATED.

"There was not enough evidence in that case to support the bribery charge. The officer who said he was given money by the arrested man did not have a warrant when he entered the place as the law requires. This evidence submitted by the prohibition enforcement office was reviewed by a Grand Jury, which was in session at that time and therefore was considered that the agent had no more status than a private citizen under the conditions that he entered."

The money received at this time, Lanagan said, must be given to the United States Treasury.

NEW HAMPSHIRE SOON TO HAVE GREELEY ROAD

A bill providing for a Daniel Webster highway through the Merrimack valley and through Franklin and Salisbury, his native town, was also passed.

FILENE PLEADS FOR LARGE U.S. EXPORT TRADE

Tells Tech Students It Is Solution of French and German Rivalry

American exports are the solution of the problem arising out of the trade rivalry between France and Germany, Edward A. Filene declared before 2,000 students at the Institute of Technology.

"Immense recent production in the United States has accumulated such a surplus that we are suffering from nervous prosperity, because we have too much and do not export any," Mr. Filene pointed out. "Stable conditions in this country cannot be achieved until the surplus is reduced by export, which will determine business conditions for the next fifteen years.

"Although the French realise that Germany, in order to pay her indemnity, must be allowed to produce and export in large quantities, they are none too anxious to see German industry in full blast, for fear that a Germany working on a scale to pay will be a menace to the world again.

"The French fear that Germany, if allowed industrial freedom to pay indemnity, will again dominate the world economically, with French industry suffering as a result. At the same time they realise that without payment of the indemnity France cannot recover from the ravages of the war. In other words the French position is 'We can't live without indemnity, and we can live with a dead Germany.'

Motion Picture News

By FRIEDA DAVIS

HAVE THE COSTUME plays come to stay? It has been a fixed idea with the producers that the public would not support period films, costume pictures, that people wanted to see their favorites in the latest creations of Paris and New York.

Occasionally a producer has come out with an old-fashioned or a period production or else with foreign and imaginative costuming, and the public has shown so clearly that it takes kindly to them that we have started, to all appearances, on a cycle of them. Even in the modern stories we have visions and dreams brought in to give opportunities for bizarre and quaint figures and lines.

Betty Blythe's picture, "The Queen of Sheba," was released by the Fox Company with trepidation, but the fans liked it and wanted more. "Passion," with its costumes of the French Revolution, is immensely popular, and "Black Beauty," which is winning hands down with New York audiences, goes back a few years in costuming.

The wealth of costumes and settings in "Kismet" are truly remarkable. Otis Skinner's silk and satin cloaks and his gay turbans and blouses are gorgeous even on the colorless screen. One can almost see the riot of colors. The glittering and be-feathered costumes of Rosemary Theby and Elinor Fair are far more attractive and striking than our most ultra-modern creations. As for the piece of these trappings in the movies, they add immeasurably to the stories, bringing before us the very life of the characters. They appeal to the eye itself as well as to the imagination.

Cecil DeMille has done much to make bizarre costumes popular. In "Male and Female" we had the Babylonian period brought in with great effect. Into his next picture, "Forbidden Fruit," which comes next week, by the way, he gives a story within a story, that of Cinderella, which is magnificently staged and costumed.

Nazimova is planning to do two such plays, "Camille" and "Aphrodite." Griffith will give us "Faust," and even the active "Doug" Fairbanks is taking to frills and laces in "The Three Musketeers." The era of costume plays has unquestionably started.

ANOTHER AUTHOR SIGNS.

SAMUEL GOLDWYN looked around the other day, found a writer running around without a contract, and promptly pulled out his fountain pen and shinned her up. Kathleen Norris, famous for "Saturday's Child" and "Mother," is the newest recruit to the Goldwyn list of well-known authors, joining Booth Tarkington, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Rupert Hughes, Gertrude Atherton and many others. She will write original stories for the screen and will write the continuity of some of her books.

Immediately after signing the contract Mrs. Norris sailed for Europe, whether to recover from the shock given her by the size of the contract or to find fresh material, she didn't say. When she returns she will go directly to Hollywood to study the making of pictures.

Mrs. Norris is the wife of Charles G. Norris, a brother of the late Frank Norris. She is one of the foremost woman novelists of today.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S FEET AGAIN.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S feet are without question the best-known pair in this country, if not in the world. As an instance of what they mean to the general public, word comes from Los Angeles that there was almost a riot in that city when it was learned that one of them was badly hurt.

While Chaplin was working on the stage of his studio he stepped on a large nail and was cut. Operations all over the studio stopped while people raced around for help. As it is, he will be laid up for about a week. Charlie was misled over the attention he got. "Anyhow, it shows how I stand," he said cheerfully, then added, "on my feet."

CUBIST MOVIES.

ANOTHER foreign-made film comes to this country in April. "The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari," which has created a sensation abroad, will be shown here in the Spring and it is said to be different from anything we have yet had on the screen.

We've heard that tale before—about pictures being "entirely different"—but in this case it promises to be true. It is a picture of the impressionistic school and the settings are made without any natural effects. They have been designed and executed to bring out the emotions of the players. What the effect of this will be is an interesting thought.

It may tend to intensify the characters' moods but might it not also detract the attention from the action and the theme of the story? With bizarre and weird staging and backgrounds one would be apt to become engrossed in them and forget the real. Will it have this effect?

"The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari" is a thrilling mystery story worked around a murder, showing graphically the reasons which led up to it, the feelings with which it was accomplished and the after-effects, not only on the action, but on the characters not concerned.

CAMERA CLICKS.

KATE BRUCE, who plays the role of the mother in "Way Down East," has been added to the cast of George Fitzmaurice's production, "Experience." The company has been nearly assembled now. The principal players to date are Richard Barthelmess as Youth, Marjorie Daw as Love, Nita Naldi as Passion, and Mrs. Bruce as Youth's mother.

MART THURMAN, once a Bennett "beauty" and now a dramatic actress, has told how she got into the movies. She was a kindergarten teacher just a few years ago in her native town, Richfield, Utah. She spent one vacation in Los Angeles, and there attracted Bennett's attention. Since then she has more than made good his prophecy that she would be one of our best players.

TEDDY SAMPSON, once well known as a Christie Comedy Girl, but who has lately gone in for more serious playing, supporting Owen Moore in Selznick pictures, has left for the West coast to play in Gaiety comedies.

PEARL WHITE once played the role of Anna, Lillian Gish's part, on the screen, in a stage version of "Way Down East."

Have the costume plays come to stay? Look at Otis Skinner and Rosemary Theby in their "Kismet" costumes and see why.

DEMAND FOUR YALE S MEN BE EXPELLED

Charged With Violating Rule Against Pledging Freshmen for Cloister

By International News Service.

New Haven, Ct., March 3.—Recommendation that the four members of Yale's exclusive Cloister society who have been found guilty by the Yale Interfraternity Council of violating the rule pledging freshmen for membership in the fraternity contrary to the Interfraternity agreement, be expelled from the Sheffield Scientific School is made in a letter to Director R. H. Chittenden of the school, published in the Yale News today. The four men involved are Ralph J. Hines, Evanston, Ill.; David E. Gibson, Jr., Canon City, Colo.; Joseph B. Selover, Cleveland, O., and Joseph D. Platt, Portland, Ore.

The four men, according to the letter to the Sheffield director, were found entertaining seven freshmen at a private house in the fashionable section of this city February 28 by a committee of other fraternity men.

It is also asked that Cloister Fraternity be barred from ever electing the seven freshmen to membership and that Cloister elections be held up three days this year until the other fraternities have picked their candidates for election.

The recommendation has caused the biggest stir in years in Yale fraternity circles.

LIE PASSED AT CIVIL SERVICE HEARING

Dana Payson Attacked by G. E. Wilson During Hearing on Veterans' Preference Bills

Members of the American Legion, American War Veteran Association, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Spanish War Veterans and the Philippine Insurrection, appeared before the Committee on Public Service of the Legislature in favor of four bills seeking absolute preference for veterans in the appointment to positions from the civil service lists and an additional credit or preferential rating of not more than five points on his experience sheet.

During the hearing of the opposition T. E. P. Wilson, representing the Permanent Fireman's Association and the Massachusetts State Firemen's Association, was hissed twice, and Senator Putnam rapped for order and insisted that the speaker be recognized and treated with respect.

Civil Service Commissioner Payson Dana was scored by veterans for not giving greater support to them, and George E. Wilson said the commissioner "lies when he says the American Legion is split."

The bills were presented by the American Legion, Ex-Service Men's Non-Partisan League of Massachusetts, Representative Stephen C. Sullivan and George E. Wilson.

John P. Holland, Leo A. Marlow and George E. Wilson of the American Legion, Stephen C. Mitchell of the American War Veterans' Association, Representative Sullivan and Morris J. Power of the U. S. W. V. A. spoke in favor of the bills, which were opposed by Commissioner Dana, James Devlin, secretary to Police Commissioner Curtis; Thomas McMurray of Worcester, president of the Massachusetts Police Association; Arthur D. Hill, corporation counsel for the city; Fire Commissioner John R. Murphy; T. E. P. Wilson, J. W. Bartlett, associate commissioner of civil service; Albert M. Paris Society Women Revive Cock Fights

Paris, March 3—From the Hindu dancing beauty, the raking of tattooed stockings and other fads, jaded Paris high society has turned to the ancient sport of cock fighting.

The latest seance was held Sunday when numbers of fashioned women, wives and daughters of noble and millionaires, surrounded the cock pit at Neuilly and backed the birds in the most exciting fashion. Many of the women bet huge sums on their particular favorites.

One woman who tied her silk garter about the neck of a bird bet all the cash she had, and then, overwhelmed with the thrill of the battle, cast her pearl necklace into the pit and declared she would wager all her jewels.

SUSPENSE KEEN IN GERMANY AS CRISIS NEARS

Government Shows No Sign of Weakening Over Attitude at London Session

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND,
Boston American Staff Correspondent

Berlin, March 3.—Suspense such as Germany has not experienced since her delegation refused to sign the peace treaty early in 1919, prevails throughout the country today.

In banking and other business circles there is an apparent apathy and resignation amounting almost to paralysis.

Everybody is waiting and all eyes are on London. "It is the hour of hats for Germany," is the expression on almost everybody's lips. It is heard most often in press, government and financial circles.

There is as yet no indication within the government that it is weakening on the attitude taken by Foreign Minister Simons before the Allied Premiers in London. The opinion is expressed on every side that what the Allies demand is impossible, and that therefore to sign is to promise what the Germans know would be impossible to fulfill.

Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Advertisement.

REPLY ON YAP IS HAILED AS 'GROTESQUE'

Council Refers Question Back to the Allies Who Gave Island to Japan

Washington, March 3.—The answer sent by the Council of the League of Nations to Secretary Colby's impressive note demanding an equal voice for America in the disposition of all German overseas territory and property, particularly the island of Yap, evades practically every question involved and is not satisfactory to this government.

It informs the United States in the politest possible language that "the rights that it acquired (by participation in the war) are not likely to be challenged in any manner that the problems presented by the mandates are so intricate and involved that they can readily be handled by the exchange of formal notes." It therefore invites the United States to appear in person before the League and present its views.

FORWARDED NOTE TO ALLIES.

As for America's objection to the award of Yap to Japan despite reservations made by President Wilson, the League Council gravely informs the United States it has nothing whatsoever to do with that.

"The League Council would remind your excellency that the allocation of all the mandated territories is a function of the supreme council and not of the Council of the League," which is merely responsible in "defining the terms of the mandate," says the note.

"Consequently, if a misunderstanding exists as to the allocation of the Island of Yap that misunderstanding would seem to be between the principal allied powers rather than between the United States and the League. However, in view of the American contention the council of the League has hastened to forward the American note to the governments of France, Great Britain, Italy and Japan."

As the crime against the United States in awarding Yap to Japan was committed by France, Great Britain, Italy and Japan without consultation with this government, the action of the council in placing the entire question before them for judgment was regarded at the State Department today as being somewhat grotesque.

IS NOW UP TO HUGHES.

"Not only does the note fail to meet a single demand made by Mr. Colby but the very felicitous phrases it contains emanate from a body which says that it cannot possibly be a judge in any matters concerned," said one high government official today.

It is believed that it will be impossible for the United States to send a formal spokesman to the League of Nations as the Senate has refused to permit this government to join the League.

It was officially stated at the State Department that the present administration will not answer the League Council's note but will leave it for Secretary of State Hughes.

Probe Blackmail in Murder

Mrs. Isabelle C. Orthwein, who has confessed to shooting Herbert P. Ziegler (below), wealthy rubber manager, in her apartment in Chicago.

Chicago, March 3.—Mrs. Isabelle Orthwein, the daring divorcee who confessed she shot and killed Herbert P. Ziegler in her apartment, is free today under $25,000 bail. Bond was furnished by Harry P. Branstetter, president of an automobile concern.

The woman will appear before the authorities at an inquest next Tuesday. The inquest was postponed to get more facts in the case.

Rumor of blackmail raised its ugly head out of the probe of the tragedy today. Police are seeking to ascertain the truth in the report that another man was in Mrs. Orthwein's apartment when Ziegler broke down her doors.

This man, gossip says, was working with some other party close to Mrs. Orthwein in a conspiracy to "shake Ziegler down," under threat of telling his wife of his relations with the divorcee.

SENATE GIVEN ALL FOREIGN LOAN DATA

Judiciary Committee Probers Asks Sanction of Recess Investigation

Washington, March 3.—The Senate Judiciary Committee has decided to continue the foreign loan investigation during the coming recess of Congress.

This decision was reached immediately after the Treasury Department had before the committee photostat copies of all official correspondence and papers relating to the advances and commitments which were made to other governments under the war-loan acts.

Senator Reed of Missouri was instructed by the committee to draft a resolution requesting the sanction of the Senate for a recess investigation. Action on it will be expedited so that it will be ready for passage today.

Questioning Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Kelly, Senator Shields of Tennessee was particularly curious to know if the Treasury has made arrangements to pay off a loan made in 1919 by a consortium of New York bankers. Mr. Kelly replied that the negotiations are being conducted by the State Department and that the Treasury is not appraised of them.

Finds Serum to Prevent Cattle Hoof Disease

Paris, March 3. — That cattle may be made immune from the foot and mouth disease is declared to be possible as a result of a discovery by Professor Valde Dalfort, formerly a doctor at the Pasteur Institute. The discovery has been made known to the Academy of Sciences.

Practically absolute prevention of this disease can be attained, according to Dr. Dalfort, by the injection intravenously of a serum formed from white blood corpuscles infected with dead microbes. The serum sets up a reaction which prevents contagion.

WIFE SAYS HUSBAND THREATENED HER LIFE

North Adams, March 3.—Alleging that her husband threatened to kill her because she refused to do as he commanded, Mrs. Silven Bressea of Beaver street declared that a slungshot, composed of a heavy iron ball attached to a braided leather strap, which was found by the police when they arrested Bressea, was the implement with which her husband said he intended killing her. Bressea pleaded guilty to assault and battery and was placed on probation.

BEAUTY SPECIALIST TELLS SECRET

A Beauty Specialist Gives Home-Made Recipe to Darken Gray Hair.

Mrs. M. D. Gillespie, a well-known beauty specialist of Kansas City, recently gave out the following statement regarding gray hair:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be purchased at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

TODAY'S BEAUTY TALK

You can enjoy a delightful shampoo with very little effort and for a very trifling cost, if you get from your druggist a package of canthrox and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water. This makes a full cup of shampoo liquid—enough so it is easy to apply it to all the hair instead of just the top of the head. Your shampoo is now ready. Just pour a little at a time on the scalp and hair until both are entirely covered by the daintily perfumed preparation that thoroughly dissolves and removes every bit of dandruff, excess oil and dirt. After rinsing, the hair dries quickly with a fluffiness that makes it seem heavier than it is, and takes on a rich luster and a softness that makes arranging it a pleasure.—Advertisement.

RAIL RATE JUMP IN NEW ENGLAND IS OPPOSED

Chamber of Commerce Authorizes Appeal to Washington for Federal Probe

The transportation committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce has been authorized by the board of directors to appeal to the Interstate Commerce Commission for an investigation of New England railroads as the first move in the battle against proposed rate increases.

Action of the board followed study of the committee's report of February 26 on the serious financial conditions of the New England roads and reviews the tentative proposals of the roads to increase their rates as a remedy.

The report continues, in part:

SEEKS SETTLEMENT.

"It is the opinion of your committee that these facts should be placed before the Interstate Commerce Commission, with the request that it make an investigation on its own motion for the purpose of determining whether the New England roads are being operated efficiently and economically, and whether conditions in New England are so different from those west of the Hudson River as to justify a further increase in rates, and if so, to prescribe what rates are fair, just and reasonable, and that those engaged in business in New England may be guided by the commission's findings, and not be continually disturbed by upward readjustment of rate schedules that keep business in the unsettled state that has existed since January 1, 1918.

"New England cannot continue to be a desirable place to manufacture and cannot hold out inducements to newcomers if its rate structure, which is now topheavy, continues to grow by reason of increases out of all proportion to increases imposed in other sections. The successive rate advances have fallen more heavily on New England than any other section because of its geographical location.

"The disadvantages under which it suffered on June 24, 1918, has been increased just 75 per cent; an additional 10 per cent would make this disadvantage 92½ per cent, and, if applied only temporarily, might and probably would in many cases drive business away that could never be regained.

PALLIATIVE NOT CURE.

"It must be apparent that what is now proposed by the carriers is merely a palliative and not a remedy that will effect a cure. Unless something unforeseen develops at the end of the Transcontinental guarantee period, the carriers will be facing exactly the same difficulty that now confronts them. New England merchants are entitled to have the question settled so that business will not be in a continual state of uncertainty, and so that the merchants can adjust their affairs to conditions that will have some semblance of stability."

Traffic League Warns Roads of Opposition

Warning was served on the railroads of New England that proposed rate increases will be vigorously opposed by shippers and the directors were called upon to clean house, cooperate and demonstrate that their systems are being honestly and efficiently operated, by the New England Traffic League in an open letter to the officials.

The letter is a veritable challenge to the directors who are plainly told that the League does not propose to tolerate "present inefficient methods of operation which shippers generally believe to exist, particularly on the New Haven road, and possibly on other lines." The letter was inspired by the proposals of the roads, placed before the Governors on February 24 last, that shippers and receivers pay increased rates in order that the roads might survive.

"It is clear to the business interests of New England that if the increasing rates are carried much further," states the letter, "the carriers will like Samson, ruin themselves by pulling down the industrial structure on which they are solely dependent and upon which the prosperity of New England depends."

The committee of the League informed the directors that it felt that it was time they took action not only to make increases unnecessary, but also to give some assurance that the present high charges which are diverting traffic may be so adjusted as to increase traffic. Further the directors were called upon to carefully survey the operating conditions on their respective lines with a view to improving "those conditions wherever possible, for it must be clear to all who are willing to see that conditions cannot be continued as at present."

His Past a Complete Blank

Isidor Lifshitz, above, whose sudden loss of memory is puzzling New England physicians. Below, the Lifshitz family. The boy standing on the left is Morris; Mrs. Lifshitz is seated with Frieda on lap; Isidor Lifshitz is standing with Ruby in his arms, and the girl on the right is Helen.

One of the most mysterious cases of partial amnesia in the history of local medical jurisprudence is occupying the attention of New England physicians in the person of Isidor Litshitz of No. 3 Clarkson street, Worcester, now undergoing treatment at the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Lifshitz has forgotten practically everything he ever learned, except the important fact of his own name and address and the names of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Lifshitz, No. 87 West Cedar street, Beacon Hill.

He fails to remember names of objects which he has seen daily for years, and is unable to recall where he has been at times. Although the word "camera" had apparently passed out of Lifshitz's vocabulary, he understood that he was having a photograph taken when he posed in the Boston American offices.

According to Dr. Nathaniel Faxon, assistant resident physician at the Massachusetts General Hospital, Lifshitz has secured relief there, although no specific method of treatment has been devised.

The man was afflicted on January 24 last, during a visit of his mother to his Worcester home. At that time Lifshitz suddenly threw up his arms and cried aloud that he was in pain. He shut his eyes for a brief interval, and on opening them was unable to recognize his surroundings. He talked incoherently and complained of deafness.

Screams of the man's wife and mother were heard by neighbors, and physicians were called. They rushed Lifshitz to the Worcester City Hospital, where specialists declared they could do nothing for him.

He was kept at the hospital thirteen days, until his condition improved to such an extent that he was permitted to leave.

By this time Lifshitz was able to tell where he was and recognized familiar faces. He was then brought on to Boston and began to receive treatment at the hospital here.

The man is able to find his way about the city, although vague as to the names of streets. It is believed, however, that in time he will completely recover his faculties.

CLUBS IN MUFFS GIRLS' WEAPON FOR 'HUGGER'

Young Women of Pittsfield Arm Themselves Against Ward Three Terrorizer

Pittsfield, March 3.—Young women of Ward 3 who go out evenings unescorted carry clubs and other weapons in their muffs for protection against a "hugger" who is terrorizing that section of the city.

One General Electric office employe struck him last night with a basket she was carrying and she says henceforth an iron stovershaker awaits him.

The police have been given this description of the "hugger": Twenty years old, tall, slim, wearing a soft brown hat and with a black overcoat. The hat generally is pulled down over his eyes. He appears soon after 8 o'clock and wanders about for an hour or more, dodging the police and awaiting his victims on the dark side of the street.

One girl of twenty years, clerk in a local store, who had been squeezed and kissed for the first time, was hysterical when she reached home. Her father notified Chief of Police John L. Sullivan, who declined to disclose the family name. This is the only formal complaint received by the police. Plain-clothes men have been assigned to the case.

Ward 3 is inhabited for the most part by General Electric Company workers, of whom 2,000 are young women. They say that with clubs in their muffs they are ready to take their chances with the "hugger." They claim clubs and stove shakers are more effective than long hatpins.

PLANS TO EXCHANGE WORCESTER PULPITS

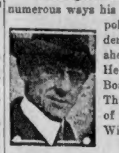
Worcester, March 3.—Request for an exchange of pulpits among the pastors of the churches in the Worcester Federation of Churches on April 10, is contained in a circular letter sent out today by the Rev. Frederick M. Cutler, executive secretary of the Federation. The plan is to have the cause of the Federation presented in each of the churches with the announcement of the appointment made for the support of the central organization and plans in mind for the coming year.

Forbidden by the Pope? The ambitious motion picture play of "The Holy Bible," fostered by the Italian government, is said to be disapproved by the Vatican. Obvious reasons are given for this stand in next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Reserve Board Not for Spoilers, Says Hapgood

By NORMAN HAPGOOD,
Editorial Correspondent of Boston American.

Washington, March 3.—President-elect Harding is showing in numerous ways his desire to get a broader basis than merely his politician friends for his administration. He evidently feels that to get by the difficult days ahead he will need a great deal of expert help. He has taken a stand about the Federal Reserve Board that illustrates this desire for efficiency. That board is charged with the administration of the most important measure passed during Mr. Wilson's presidency.



Norman Hapgood

During the campaign last Summer an attempt was made to bring political influence to bear on it, and when a board has such enormous power over credit the danger of attempted influence must be ever present.

There has been a meeting between the President-elect and a delegation from the Federal Reserve Board. The President-elect made it entirely clear that he had no desire to use the vacancies as spoils. The chairman of the board, Mr. Harding had, according to newspaper reports, been contemplating resigning to accept the presidency of a corporation. The incoming President has seen these reports. He told the chairman that he hoped he would not resign, at least not with any idea that Mr. Harding would like to fill his place. That place becomes vacant in 1923. There are five members appointed by the President. One place becomes vacant every two years. At present, however, there is an irregularity, a place becoming vacant Friday, because it is an interim appointment. If Mr. Harding has made up his mind whom to appoint to that place his decision is not known.

Dropping Secretary of Treasury Proposed

Certain changes are likely in the makeup of the Board, but they are changes depending on legislation.

One project is to do away with all the ex-officio members of the Board leaving only those who are appointed. A less extreme measure, and one likely to become a law, calls for the elimination from the Board of the Secretary of the Treasury, who under the present arrangements presides over the meeting when he is present.

A change that is practically certain to be made is in ending the present plan of having the chairman of the board designated by the Secretary of the Treasury, from among those already members of the board. It is pretty clear that the chairman hereafter will be chosen by the members themselves, possibly with some such rotation in working as on the Federal Trade Commission. This change is due to a belief that this designation has put unnecessary personal power in the secretary's hands.

Union Head Cites Davis' Labor Record

I have just received a letter regarding James J. Davis, and his fitness for Secretary of Labor. It is from Fred Keighly, international secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers of North America, who believes that I have not given Mr. Davis credit for as much actual manual labor as he has done. I am therefore glad to print Mr. Keighly's statement of Mr. Davis' record as a laboring man.

"Mr. Davis first became a member of our organization at Sharon, Pa., about the year 1898 as a puddler, one of the most skillful trades in the iron business. He later worked at that trade in Birmingham, Alabama, transferring his membership to Birmingham Lodge No. 4, Alabama, which he left during the year 1899, transferring his membership to McKinley Lodge No. 21, Indiana, at Elwood, Indiana, where he entered the tin mills and worked himself up to the highly skilled job of a tin mill heater, which position he held when he left the position to become city clerk at Elwood.

"When the tin mills of Elwood were lost to the ranks of our organization in the strike of 1909, and that local became defunct, Mr. Davis with some others transferred his membership to Granite City Lodge, No. 11, Illinois, of which local he is an active member to this date."

$5,000 MOVIE TITLE TEST IS EASY IF YOU FOLLOW THE RULES

SEE TODAY'S FILM SKETCH ON PICTURE PAGE

Write a few letters under the Test Picture shown today on the Picture Page, and if you prove to be the person who earns First Award in the $5,000 Movie Play Title Test, you will receive $16.66 for that one title.

The Title Test Editor is not responsible for the arithmetic. A Roslindale correspondent has figured that the participant who carries off First Award in the Title Test will be paid at the rate of $16.66 per title.

Our friend apparently assumes, however, that the happy person who captures First Award will send in 60 correct titles. Isn't that a lot of assuming? His score of "corrects" may be not more than 50. In that case his "pay" would be "per."

Judging by the size of his daily mail the Title Test Editor concludes that the new Test is at least twice as interesting as the Player Test. This opinion is confirmed and strengthened by increasing orders from newsdealers.

SOME THINGS NOT TO DO.

The Test Editor is resolved to be much more careful hereafter about what he writes. Every time he takes his pen in his hand his foot slips. A day or two ago he cautioned two young correspondents that they must send nothing in before the end of the Test.

One of the young persons had clipped the coupon from under the Test Picture—leaving the Test Picture apart—and had forwarded the coupon without the picture.

Dr. Title Test Editor took occasion to tell these youthful participants two things. First, that they must send in nothing before the end of the Test. Second, that the Test Picture must be sent in, at the end of the Test, with the coupon attached. And here is where the writer appears to have said too much. He advised making one piece of the picture, the coupon and the top piece, "No. —— $5,000 Picture Play Title Test."

Well, although the Rules do not demand it, that is the way the Title Test Editor would do his own clipping. But nobody is OBLIGED to do it that way.

The Boston American containing the above suggestion to the young folks was scarcely on the street before Mr. Editor began to hear from it. Two readers who had clipped Pictures Nos. 1 and 2 without the top piece, wanted to know about it. This is to inform them that what they did is permissible

What you MUST do is set forth in the Rules. Nothing the Movie Test Editor can or may say here is going to amend or suspend any Rule. Read the Rules, folks, and you will know all that the Test Editor can know about them.

COMPLETE TEST IS SIXTY PICTURES.

Another question that has come up two or three times lately is so plainly disposed of by the printed Rules that it appears to the Test Editor to be unfair to come to him about it.

The second paragraph of the Rules reads:

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by these two newspapers to their readers who submit the largest percentage of correct titles TO THE 60 PICTURES to be published, one each day consecutively, in the Daily American and Sunday Advertiser.

Now, one of the Rules of the Movie Player Identity Test was phrased to all-but the same words, except that in this Test reference was made to "120 pictures."

You cannot get away from the plain black and white of this provision with respect to both Tests, and the Test Editor hopes he will not be asked again about it. Please read the Rules. PLEASE read them!

Covering a period of 60 days the Boston American—in association with the Boston Sunday Advertiser—has entered upon the printing of 60 "Pictures Without Titles."

Readers of the co-operating newspapers are asked to WRITE A TITLE for each of the Test Pictures.

Nothing is to be sent in until the end of the Test, late next month, when the following awards will be paid in cash to those who submit the largest percentage of CORRECT titles:

ONE FIRST AWARD	$1,000
ONE SECOND AWARD	750
ONE THIRD AWARD	500
ONE FOURTH AWARD	400
ONE FIFTH AWARD	300
ONE SIXTH AWARD	200
ONE SEVENTH AWARD	150
ONE EIGHTH AWARD	100
ONE NINTH AWARD	50
100 AWARDS OF $10 EACH	1,000
110 AWARDS OF $5 EACH	550
TOTAL	$5,000

Each and every picture in this $5,000 Test will illustrate the TITLE of a motion picture play which HAS been produced in the United States. Not a play itself, mark you, not a SCENE in the play, but the TITLE of the play.

LIST OF TITLES DAILY.

In order that there may be no mistake about it, we shall print every day an official List of Titles which will include that day's Test Picture.

Observe, for example, today's Test Picture, No. 5, which appears on the Picture Page. The title is missing. What IS the title? It will be your task to write it.

How are you going to do it?

Very well, now we know what the Test Picture IS. Below the picture is a List of Titles. Pencil in hand, let us scan this list of titles until we find the ONE title which—much better than any other in the list—fits our picture. We find it, and——

Nothing to do until tomorrow!

THEATRES ALSO HELPING.

This course will be followed throughout the Test. Every day a Test Picture. Every day, likewise, a List of Titles.

Nor is the List of Titles to be our only help. Two hundred of the BEST motion picture theatres in New England are helping us. Of them, more elsewhere.

The one thing that remains to be said is to caution everybody that the Test must be followed from day to day, as the Rules so clearly specify. And the one way to be sure of following it from day to day is to make sure that you get the co-operating newspapers, Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, regularly throughout the Test period.

Why run ANY risk? The easiest thing in the world is to say NOW to Mr. Newsdealer:

"I want the Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser regularly until the Movie Title Test has closed." See that I get them."

The dealer will be delighted to receive, eager to fill, that order. If anything goes wrong, once you have placed such an order, drop a postal card immediately to Manager of Circulation, No. 30 Summer street, Boston 2, Mass.

"British policy blocks re-birth of Russia," says ex-Premier Nitti of Italy in his remarkable review of European political conditions. Why he thinks that all great powers must have "world aid" is told in next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

200 THEATRES AID TEST

You know about the co-operating motion picture theatres. They are named here. They number two hundred and they include the best movie houses in New England.

In each of these popular playhouses a Title Test Picture is flashed upon the screen at every performance. The picture shown today in the Boston American is the picture exhibited today in the picture-theatre. On the screen, of course, it looks many times larger.

Our readers who found similar cooperation on the part of the theatres of great assistance to them in the Movie Test Player Test are agreed that this co-operation means much more in the Title Test.

The Boston American has no hesitancy in recommending the co-operating theatres to its readers. The managers of these theatres aim at Service. Each is glad to do whatever he can to help readers of the Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser in the Title Test.

Patronize one of the theatres named here. See the Test Picture as it appears on the screen. Tell your friends about these theatres. Be a booster!

LANDIS TO QUIT FEDERAL BENCH, IS REPORT

Judge Will Retain Post as Baseball Commissioner, Sporting Men Assert

Chicago, March 2.—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis will resign from the Federal bench, according to reports in judicial and sporting circles today. He will retain his post as baseball commissioner, it is said. He probably will have his headquarters in Washington.

Judge Landis declined to make more than brief comment on the action of the House of Representatives' committee recommendation that impeachment charges against him be pushed in the next Congress. But he reaffirmed a statement he had made before a meeting of the Missouri Bar Association a few days ago.

He had told the bar association that if either the House or Senate passed a resolution criticising him for accepting the baseball commission, he would retire from the bench. "Do you still stand on what you said before the Missouri Bar Association?" he was asked.

"Absolutely," he replied.

'Meanest Thief' Gets 15 Days in Jail

Declaring the robbery of Mrs. Austena Grundlach, an aged widow, was "one of the meanest that has ever come under my attention," Judge Sturtevant in Somerville Court sentenced Thomas J. Tarmey, eighteen years old, of Vine street, to fifteen days in the House of Correction. Tarmey, who was arrested after a chase, appealed.

According to Mrs. Grundlach, who runs a small store at No. 112 Cedar street, Somerville, she was alone in the place when Tarmey entered, snatched a box of cigars, eight packets of cigarettes and $2 in cash, and fled. She chased him into the arms of a policeman.

"That's the meanest theft I ever heard of," said Judge Sturtevant in sentencing the prisoner.

Benjamin F. Cleaves, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission; Edward F. Wheeler of Brunswick, W. R. Pattangall of Augusta, Frank E. Guernsey of Dover, and Edward M. Draper of Bangor, as Maine representatives to the Boston conference which is to consider the proposed 10 per cent. increase in freight and passenger rates of the New England Railroads.

'LIGHTED LAMP' DIMMED; FINE OWNERS $100

Judge Dowd Decides "Tea Room" Is a Disreputable Resort

Finding that the conduct of patrons of the "Lighted Lamp," the Myrtle street tea room, West End, was "lewd and obscene," while the atmosphere, "the candlelight, the shimmering darkness—all was setting to play on the passions"—Judge Thomas J. Dowd imposed fines of $100 each on Ambrose D. Gring, Jr., and Mrs. Natalie Woodward, who conducted the establishment. The defendants, who were charged with maintaining a house of ill-fame, appealed from the sentence.

Mrs. Ambrose D. Gring, stepmother of one of the defendants, rose from her seat in the courtroom after Judge Dowd's decision and was about to address the court when court officers ordered her back to her seat. Judge Dowd remarking:

"Madam, this is not the 'Lighted Lamp.' This is the court of the Commonwealth."

STANDING ARMY OF 156,000 IS AGREED UPON

House and Senate Conferees Submit Report for Action Today

Washington, March 2.—A standing army of 156,000 was agreed to by Senate and House conferees on the army appropriation bill.

The Senate originally had stuck out for a strength of 175,000 and the House for 150,000.

The conference report was completed by striking out amendments conferring the rank of lieutenant-general upon Major-General Hunter Liggett and Major-General Robert L. Bullard.

The report was submitted to both houses for action today.

WIFE DIVORCES ACTOR FOR CRUELTY

Medford Woman Says He Struck Her With Book; Other Decrees Granted

That her husband, William A. Ward of Lawrenceville, Ill., shook her so hard that she fainted and that he hurled a heavy book at her which struck her in the back, was the testimony of Mrs. Lillian C. Ward of Medford, before Judge Lummus in the Middlesex County divorce court at East Cambridge. She was given a decree nisi for cruel and abusive treatment.

The case was not contested. Both Mrs. Ward and her husband were playing in a musical comedy at Richmond, Va., when the first attack took place. She testified that her husband struck her heavily and frequently struck her.

It was in New York City that the book throwing episode took place. They were married at Shreveport, La., on March 21, 1918. She also asked for and was given permission to resume her maiden name, Lillian Calnan.

Other decrees nisi granted were as follows: Mrs. Helen B. Hamilton of Somerville from Eric S. Hamilton of Medford, for cruel and abusive treatment; Mrs. Clara Cooke of Everett from Fred S. Cooke of Everett, on desertion: Mrs. Eleanor M. Beverley of Wakefield from Ralph E. Beverley of Wakefield, for cruel and abusive treatment; Antonio Caterina of Watertown from Mrs. Rosina Caterina of Italy for infidelity; Mrs. Carrie E. Palmer of Medford from Ernest W. Palmer of Medford, for desertion; Mrs. Marion Mclaughlin of Everett from Richard J. McLaughlin of Everett, for cruel and abusive treatment; Mrs. Mary T. Andrews of Cambridge from Willard H. Andrews of New York city, for cruel and abusive treatment.

Gabriele Farina of Woburn was divorced from Mrs. Marcena Farina of Boston, for infidelity; Mrs. Grace V. Watson of Melrose from Frank Watson of Melrose, for cruel and abusive treatment; Mrs. Helen B. Haley of Framingham from Horace E. Haley of Framingham, for desertion; Mrs. Ella M. Howlett of Newton from Albert D. Howlett of Newton, for cruel and abusive treatment.

Geraldine Farrar Is 39 and Tells the World

Is a lady's age her own private business?

The answer to that is: Not when she's a popular prima donna.

And that leads up to the announcement that Miss Geraldine Farrer, famed as "Madam Butterfly" and a host of other opera characters is just thirty-nine years old, and carries little who knows it least she attended her birthday party over three whole days of festivity.

Her real birthday was Monday, but the celebration did not begin until yesterday, when her husband, who is an actor, was able to get home to their residence on Seventy-fourth street, New York.

In the meantime, however, stage hands and the electrician's force of the Metropolitan Opera House had learned the news and filled the singer's dressing room to overflowing with real flowers, smilax and such, which she loves.

When the celebration started at the star's own home of course the mysterious "Gerryflappers" were present. The "Gerryflappers" are a little coterie of serious thinkers who ardently worship the star. Heretofore the personnel of this organization was kept secret, but the name was given to the world at the Farrar birthday party.

CHARGE MURDER ACCUSER FIRED FATAL SHOT

Trigger Trial Defence Uses Grand Jury Minutes to Support Allegation

Williamson, W. Va., March 3.—Upon the man who turned from accused into accuser, Isaac Brewer, the defense in the Trigger trial will attempt to fix the blame for the killing of Detective Albert Felts.

This became apparent for the first time when J. J. Conlif, counsel for the seventeen defendants, proved by the test of Grand Jury minutes that a witness before the Grand Jury, Al Hoskins testified:

"Brewer fired a shot. It looked like it hit Albert Felts in the face. Felts dropped."

Brewer was one of the originally indicted twenty-three men. The case against him was nolled when he turned state's witness. On the stand last week he swore that Sid Hatfield fired the shot which killed Felts.

Fred Slater, a witness for the defence, testified that Brewer told him while they were bed neighbors in the hospital where Brewer was recovering from wounds received in the Matewan gun fight, that Albert Felts shot Mayor O. O. Testerman of Matewan. On the stand Brewer swore the other day to threats by Sid Hatfield against the Mayor, whose widow Hatfield married less than a fortnight after the battle.

3 DAUGHTERS PROTEST SAMPSON SANDERS' WILL

Pittsfield, March 3.—Elisabeth Torrey, Hattie S. Cronk of Williamstown, and Fannie B. Kendall of Berlin, sisters, have petitioned the Probate Court here for revocation of their assent to the will of their father, Sampson Sanders of Williamstown. They also protest the appointment of their brother, Marshall Sanders, as executor. Under the terms of the will each daughter received $100 and the sun the rest. The daughters declare they have learned that their father did not sign his will in the presence of three witnesses.

NEW HAMPSHIRE KILLS 48-HOUR WEEK BILL

Manchester, March 3.—The bill before the Legislature providing for a forty-eight hour week for women and minors under eighteen years of age was killed by the House by a vote of 210 to 123, when the members refused a third reading. The arguments against the bill were that it was inadvisable to put any additional burdens on the manufacturers and that farmers felt that any reduction in the hours of labor would work to their injury.

"Lily" Lays 3-Inch Egg

Let scientists by kings be knighted,
And diplomats for loosen beg,
Their deeds seem futile when recited,
Compared to "Lily" and her pullet,
Cora Jane Ballet.

"Lily" is a white Plymouth Rock hen, whose forte or metier, as they say in upper circles, is laying oversize eggs in a praiseworthy if unsuccessful endeavor to reduce the high cost of living.

Lily lays unusually large eggs, as a sculptor or artist turns out a masterpiece, and who shall say that her efforts are not worthy of equal praise.

To her super-sensitive spirit the successful production of an abnormal egg has the same effect as the completion of a beautiful mental effusion of the mind of a poet. She cackles right joyfully.

Like all other artists, Lily does not turn out masterpieces daily. Far be it from such. She grubs along sometimes for weeks, turning out common, or garden sized eggs, her mind apparently not much above the worms which she tracks remorselessly to their lair or lairs. And then, on a day, suddenly she is seized with an inspiration and Voila—The Egg.

The large egg shown in the photograph was of this type. Super or ultra eggs, they might be regarded. They were accomplished during the past week by Lily in addition to her regular quota. They are almost identical in size, both being six and a half inches in circumference, one three inches long and the other a trifle less.

Lily is the property of Mrs. W. Harmann of No. 644 Canterbury street, Roslindale, and is one of a flock of forty hens. All of Mrs. Harmann's hens are willing workers, but Lily is the pride of the flock, the queen of the roost as it were. Furthermore, Mrs. Harmann plans to add a prize-winning white Plymouth Rock rooster to the fold, as a companion and playfellow for Lily.

Patrolman Charles R. McCauley, for nine years a member of the Woburn police department, has been appointed chief of police of that city by Mayor Bernard J. Golden, and was immediately sworn in by City Clerk James McLaughlin.

CURTIS SHIFTS THREE POLICE CAPTAINS

Shakeup Also Includes Two Lieutenants; Kneeland Promoted to Captaincy

In a general order issued by Police Commissioner Edwin U. Curtis superior officers of the police force are given a "shake-up," which, while not unexpected, nevertheless was somewhat of a surprise to the rank and file of the department.

Three captains, two lieutenants and one sergeant are transferred to new posts while one lieutenant is promoted to the rank of captain and assigned an intown station.

The officers are:

Lieutenant Percy C. Kneeland, of the Roxbury Crossing Station, promoted to captain and assigned to command of the City Hall Avenue Station.

Captain James F. Sullivan of the City Hall Avenue Station, transferred to the superintendent's office at police headquarters.

DESIGNATES MARCH 9 "NATIONAL FISH DAY"

Washington, March 3.—In a statement issued here Secretary of Commerce Alexander urges all Americans to eat fish on "National Fish Day," which he has designated for March 9. He asks fish dealers to arrange attractive displays on that day and give the public the best fish at reasonable prices.

More about the Brown College boys, their opposition to "betting parties" and the "love hungry" girls whom they met at their dances in next Sunday's Advertiser.

BROCKTON DEALER CUTS COAL PRICE TO $17.25

Brockton, March 3.—Because the supply of anthracite coal has so increased during the past few weeks, Fuel Administrator George W. Alden has notified all local dealers that restrictions as to deliveries and reports are lifted. One local dealer today announced a reduction of price to $17.25 per ton, although he claimed he was taking a loss of $7 per ton.

HUNGER BLAMED FOR RUSSIAN REVOLT

Street Battles Develop in Petrograd; Lenin Said to Be Rushing to Scene

London, March 3.—Dispatches from Helsingfors to the Central News state that the revolt in Petrograd and Moscow was due primarily to a severe lack of food. A week ago the factory workers struck. The movement was joined by Kronstadt sailors.

In Petrograd huge mass demonstrations were held in the streets demanding the summoning of the Constitutional Assembly and also the distribution of foodstuffs.

WERRI STREET BATTLES.

Spasmodic firing developed into street battles. At the same time in Moscow a nation-wide metal workers' conference denounced the Soviets.

The Russians at Helsingfors say break of revolution planned for the near future, but that starvation brought the matter to a head sooner than expected.

It is calculated that the Soviets will need at least 150,000 Letts and Chinese soldiers to put down the movement.

Another Central News dispatch from the same source states that Lenin and Trotsky have fled to the Crimea, and are planning to escape to South America.

LENIN RUSHES TO RESCUE.

Another report received in London today states that Lenin is rushing to Petrograd in an effort to rally his faithful followers and put down the revolt.

It is stated that three former Czarist army officers are now leading the Moscow insurgents among the Soviet troops.

One dispatch states that the revolt in Petrograd is practically under control and that the Soviet government is issuing increased rations in Moscow to striking soldiers.

HUNDREDS SEE MAN SLASHED DURING FIGHT

In full view of hundreds of people, Amet Osman, thirty-six years old, of No. 46 Border street, East Boston, was assaulted and his head and neck slashed open. Peter Markas, twenty-eight years old, of No. 84 Sumner street, was later locked up in Station 7 charged with assault and battery with intent to kill Osman. The latter was rushed to the East Boston Relief Hospital, where ten stitches were taken in a wound extending from his right temple down into his neck. The two men, it was learned, had a disagreement.

MAILS VALUABLES TO WIFE AND KILLS SELF

Portsmouth, N. H., March 3.—Last Monday Holland R. Culver, aged thirty, mailed his watch, pay and other valuables to his wife, stating that he would be dead when she found them. His body has been discovered in a pine grove off South street. He killed himself with a 45-calibre revolver. He was a machinist in the local navy yard.

Have Bread Filled With Raisins

For Flavor and for Health

A bread is made that's full of raisins, luscious nuggets of sun-cured California fruit, Nature's own confections. It's called Sun-Maid Raisin Bread. First-class bakers make it, and supply it to retailers, or you can bake it at home according to the recipe below.

Serve such bread because it's real raisin bread and because it's healthful.

NUXATED IRON
Helps make rich, red blood and revitalize weak nerves

YOU MAY BE A BETTER MAN AT 45, THAN THE YOUTH OF 25

If you keep your blood rich in iron to give you plenty of "stay there" strength and endurance.

In an account of a severe mountain climbing test, a New York newspaper states that 98 percent of those who accomplished the feat were 44 years and over. It is therefore shown that you may be a better man at 45 than the husky stripling of 25 if you take care of yourself and keep your blood filled with iron. Prize fighters, wrestlers and athletes have learned the value of plenty of plain coarse foods in their training so such a diet helps supply their blood with iron.

Nature put plenty of iron in the husks of grains and the seeds of vegetables to enrich your blood, but modern methods of roentgen know all these things are over-done—hence the alarming increase in recent years in Anaemia —iron starvation of the blood, with its devitalizing weakness, nervousness, and other attendant ills. If you would be strong and well, if you lack bodily and mental vigor, do not wait until you are ill in bed or collapse in a state of nervous prostration or nail in your weakened condition, but instead some serious disease, but take some organic iron like NUXATED IRON and use it to help enrich your blood and revitalize your nerves. Numerous cases are reported where after using it for a few weeks they could not take the iron in spinach, beefs and apples. It will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. You can even eat it if you wish. It often increases your bodily and mental vigor in two weeks' time. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if they do not obtain satisfactory results. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. At all druggists.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid Is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion are nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the pit of the stomach, sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Advertisement.

LEFT MOTHER TO ESCAPE IRISH HORRORS

Michael F. O'Reilly of South End Indicts Murderous Black and Tans

Petty persecution and the continued begging of his old mother, who feared for the life of her son, threatened by the Black and Tans, forced Michael F. O'Reilly, an American citizen, to leave the aged woman alone in her cottage at Inchigeela, Ireland, and return to his home in Boston.

O'Reilly, who had been naturalized as an American for several years, came home on the White Star liner Celtic, which landed him at New York a few days ago. He came on to Boston. He lives at No. 73 Village street, South End.

His comes back crammed to the lips with tales of the horrors Ireland is experiencing under the reign of terror that England has spread broadcast over the "most distressful country."

"I went home a year ago," he said, "in order to be with my mother, who in past years had been ailing, and ill.

"Of course I had my citizenship papers and my passport, but for all that I was suspected from the first to a series of petty annoyances and persecutions.

"My mother's place is in the country about a mile from the town. When I arrived there I found the old Irish Constabulary of the town through they were strict, they were fair and there was no trouble. When the Black and Tans took the place of the constabulary, and at once set to work to make the whole district a wilderness

NO ONE SAFE.

"No man or woman was safe for a moment on the road or on the streets. Time and again they were stopped and searched me without every one of them knew I am an American citizen.

"They used to insult me, calling me an —— blankety Yankee gunman, and other names too vile to mention.

"More than once I was dragged before the colonel of the Black and Tans and stripped and searched.

"Once when I remonstrated with a sergeant he slapped me across the face with his hand, and threatened to 'blow my guts out' if I made a move.

"On the first of last January, while I was walking into town from my mother's cottage. I was halted and taken before the colonel, who had me searched again. When they got through and found nothing on me but my passport and other papers, the colonel told me:

"'Your passport expires March 4. You'd better get out of this country before that if you know what is good for you.'

"Later that same day I was again arrested and taken two hundred yards from the cottage and held there under guard while Black and Tans searched the house.

"My mother stood up to them like a man. When they tried to break open my trunk, she sat down on it and vowed she'd brain the first of them that came near her with a bottle. They left her alone.

CURSED YANK SOLDIER.

"Martial law is everywhere, of course, and it's as much as a man's life is worth to be caught with a revolver or a rifle. One of the little tricks of the Black and Tans is to send a man to a house to search and then while he is there have him slip a revolver behind a picture or some other hiding place in the house. Later another party of them will go to the house, 'find' the revolver, and the owner of the house will be shot.

"Just before I left Ireland I met a friend whose head had been laid open by the butt of a Black and Tan's pistol because he was wearing a green necktie.

"While they were searching my mother's cottage they came upon the picture of an American soldier, a friend of mine, who served overseas with the A. E. F. One of the Black and Tans cursed him and called him an unmentionable name. My mother told me about it later, when they turned me loose.

BOYS SHOT DOWN.

"Men and women in the fields when they hear one of the police lorries coming down the road run away as fast as they can, for one of the chief delights of the Black and Tans is to shoot down the workers in the fields, especially near the places where they have been ambushed.

"Three young lads of my acquaintance were playing ball in the street at Mill street, not far from Macroom, where twenty-seven Black and Tans were killed in an ambush, and the police shot them down as they played. One of them was killed and his body was put in the motor lorrie and carried to his home, where it was flung down at the feet of his mother.

"I could go on all night telling you stories of that kind, but what's the use? Unless Americans intervene to aid Ireland, God knows what will be the outcome of the troubles. They get worse instead of better."

The Robare boy received a cut as inch and a half long and a quarter of an inch deep.

FR. CORRIGAN URGES DIVORCE PROHIBITION

Alarming Increase Makes It More Needed Than Volstead Act, Says B. C. Professor

"Divorce conditions in the United States constitute a public disgrace and a national peril," declared Rev. Jones I. J. Corrigan in a lecture at Boston College Hall under the auspices of the Young Men's Catholic Association.

"National prohibition of divorce," he said, "is far more needed than the Volstead Act. Irrespective of creed beliefs, divorce should be made, not less easy, but impossible.

INCREASE ALARMING.

"There is no more serious problem confronting the American people," Father Corrigan declared, "than the problem of divorce. American family life needs to be stabilized. It cannot be gainsaid that divorce destroys the home, and the home is the base and foundation of the State.

"Yet in the United States divorce is spreading with alarming rapidity. It has permeated every walk of life and is prevalent among every class of our people. If divorces multiply at the same rate in the future as in the past — and there is every indication that they are increasing faster—then, before the middle of this century, that is, by 1946, we shall have annually in the United States 275 divorces per 100,000 population or one divorce for every five marriages.

DISRUPTING MORALITY.

"Already in 1906 there was one divorce for every twelve marriages and our present figures are not far from one divorce for every nine marriages. This simply constitutes a public disgrace and a national peril. It bodes no good for America that the total number of divorces granted in the United States is more than twice as great as in all the rest of Christendom combined.

Passion, interest or caprice are daily suggesting motives for the dissolution of marriage. Divorce, instead of contributing to happiness and virtue, as some social theorists maintain, is actually destroying all mutual confidence between husband and wife and inflaming every trifling dispute. Divorces are multiplying and public morality is showing the unmistakable results. It is an anomaly of our divorce laws that they actually reward adulterers by permitting them to remarry instead of sending them to jail.

"There is just one cure that will save American family life and restore moral health to the nation at large, and that is the absolute prohibition of divorces with the right to remarry."

Declare Riches Nothing to Love and Happiness

Is true love worth $1,000,000?

Would you sacrifice that tidy sum rather than give up husband, wife or sweetheart?

The "Love and Millions" Editor asked this question as a result of the action of A. O. McLaughlin of No. 132 West Canton street, South End, who refused to accept an immense inheritance in Scotland because it would have involved giving up the girl of his choice and taking a wife chosen for him by his relatives.

And, having asked it, the editor immediately found he had made considerable work for himself, for answers are coming in with every mail.

Most of those writing to the Boston American "Love and Millions" Editor approve and commend McLaughlin's course, and predict that he will never regret it. Here are a few of the letters:

LOVE ABOVE DOLLAR.

Editor "Love and Millions," Boston American:

Love nowadays is not considered as sacred as it should be. All some people think of is money. Would I marry a woman I cared nothing about for the "almighty dollar?" No, sir. Love to me is the most sacred thing in the world. Without it there can be no happiness.

I am a single man, twenty-five years old. My ambitions centre about a little home and a wife. I can live without reservations. I do not care about money, beyond my moderate actual needs, or about yachts, automobiles or social position.

My ambition is to find a young girl who really appreciates the sacredness of the word "home." I would give up a hundred times a million dollars to marry the girl of my choice rather than the girl of money and no love.

But some people think differently in these fast-moving modern days. They seem to think love is just a matter of form, getting acquainted, then having a minister or a notary public read off the ceremony that makes the couple man and wife.

People who think love only that frequently find themselves in the divorce courts later, airing family linen, trying for divorce or separate maintenance. Divorce is a crime and worse than a crime. But the prevalence of divorce has its source in the failure of so many to understand the solemn meaning of love between man and woman.

HAROLD EDWARD ROSE.

PESSIMIST.

But here comes a pessimistic and cynical note, signed by "One who has been through the mill."

Editor Boston American:

Never would I give up so much money in marry for silly love, or infatuation. In all probability you would be sick and tired of your bargain before five years had passed, or even one. I say again "marry for money." It may not be everything but it is 99 per cent.

If you married any man or woman having good, lovable qualities you could no more help loving them than you could stop the sun from shining.

Kindness and gentleness are the two great things in married life. It is sickening to hear so much of "love marriages" when so many of them turn out marriages of hate. ONE WHO HAS BEEN THROUGH THE MILL.

And the "Love and Millions" query drove one reader to poetry. Here are his lines:

"PLAIN INSANITY."

Would I give up a million dollars
Just for what you say?
I guess I think it's "some kook"
Who'd entertain such stuff to pay.
Imagine a million dollars
Chilled by my side!
I dare to say I'd love it more
Than any bride.
Just think, "one million dollars"
With a she one thrown in!
It would take some love to restrain that
And I love you, sin.
Add forty thousand dollars
Compared to a cottage web
There is all my love for love. I say
Is plain insanity.

BORAH PERSISTS IN FIGHTING NAVY BILL

Despite Lodge's Warning as to Japan, Filibusters Oppose Big Appropriation

Washington, March 3.—In the face of an international situation described by Senator Lodge, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, to the Senate in secret session Tuesday, as one grave and complicated to allow haggling over measures of national defense, Senator Borah and his group of filibusters renewed their fight to kill the naval appropriations bill.

When the session closed at a late hour last night, Senator Poindexter, ranking member of the Naval Affairs Committee, who has charge of the bill, frankly admitted he is waging a losing fight. With only one more legislative day remaining before the expiration of the Congress and with the filibusters showing no signs of relaxing their opposition, the situation, he confessed, is practically hopeless.

Although Senator Lodge professes to discount the possibility of an armed outbreak between this country and Japan, it is known that he is severely exceedingly apprehensive

PRETTY CHICAGO GIRL VIOLINIST VANISHES

Gone to "Do Next Worst Thing to Suicide," She Says in Farewell Note

Chicago, March 3.—Miss Irene Kondr, aged eighteen, a talented violinist, is being sought by authorities today following her disappearance to "do the next worst thing to suicide."

She left a note to her sister, which reads:

"Mother asked me not to disgrace the family by committing suicide, so I shall do the next worst thing. Dear daddy—he was always so good and kind, but I don't believe he quite understood me. Darling mother, are you dear sister, I hate to go, but it seems I am such a disappointment to everybody. I shall always love you. Your heartbroken Irene."

Friends are at a loss to explain her action. Relatives say she had no love affairs. She was exceptionally pretty.

Market Opens Weak but Shows Morning Improvement; Curb Trading Is Dull

Weakness characterized the Boston market at the opening, but there was gradual improvement and a trifle irregular as to price changes before the morning was over. Trading was quiet and of less volume than the day before. Boston Elevated and West End were more active than usual and the former sold at a new high for the year. It advanced a point. West End common made a small gain.

There was less business in Carson Hill than for several days. Packing issues were firmer and coppers had a tendency toward a lower level, but were inactive as a group. Utah Apex was the only rail to make an easy appearance and it was a trifle higher. New River preferred gained a point and sold at a new 1921 high. Edison advanced a point and Lake Point or more losses were sustained by United Fruit and Wolverine.

Small gains were made by East Butte, Carson Hill, Loew's Inc, and Swift & Co., while fractionally lower stocks included Chino, Calumet & Arizona, Copper Range, St. Mary's Land, Trinity, Utah Metal, Wolverine, United Drug, Venture and United Shoes.

MIXED CURB MOVEMENT.

There was no overnight change as regards Curb conditions. This market had a dull opening and a mixed movement. Boston & Montana, Denbigh and Eureka were leaders at the start. Issues to advance at once included Albany Divide, Allied Oil, Crystal, Eureka and Texas. Among those to recede at once were Allied, Boston & Montana, Denbigh, Imperial, Palisades and Ophir.

At the end of an hour Boston & Montana was off 2 cents at 65 cents, Daddy 1 cent at 10 cents and Imperial 1 cent at 7 cents. Gains included Denbigh 1 cent at 11 cents, Eureka 2 cents at 13, Ray Hilltop 1 cent at 18 cents and Crystal 2 cents at 17 cents. Allied Oil had lost its gain and Ophir had recovered its loss.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

The February output of the Boston Consolidated, to wash 1,000 tons, was 1,000 tons, a decrease of 9.5 per cent., compared with February ago.

For 1920 the Atlas Tack Corporation reports profits after taxes and interest for taxes of $130,852, equivalent to $1.31 for each of the 95,000 shares outstanding. In 1919 the profits of Atlas Tack Co. after taxes were $140,000.

The Edison System sales for February $10,816,000, as compared with $5,371,300 for similar month of 1919. Increased rates and higher charges enabled the corporation to pay $ per cent. preferred stock, common and 1 per cent. stock dividends on the common, in addition to the regular 6 per cent. dividends on the deeds.

Stockholders have been notified by Calumet & Hecla that distribution of $5 per share for June 30, 1920 was made from earnings accumulated prior to March 1, 1913, and therefore is not dividend income for stockholders.

Directors of the Utah Copper Co. and the Kennecott Copper Corporation declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 per share.

Salem Mass., has sold to the Merchants' National Bank of Boston $1,000,000 of its 5 per cent. note, a premium of $1, a temporary loan of $200,000, maturing November 1, 1921.

President William M. Wood of the American Woolen Co. has gone South for a vacation.

The February smelter output by the Old Dominion Copper Co. was 1,857,000 pounds, compared with 2,622,000 in January, this year, and 2,150,000 in February, last year.

RAILS FIRMER AND OILS DOWN

Steels Rally During the Forenoon; Atlantic Gulf Kept Under Selling Pressure

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were heavy in New York at noon but were well above the lowest level of the forenoon. There was a gradual price improvement. Rails were firmer than for several days, but oils ruled slightly lower.

There was morning improvement for steels. Motors remained irregular, and Utah was the only active copper, early weak it rallied and at one time was up near two points.

Atlantic Gulf was kept under selling pressure. International Corporation was strong. Good gains were made by Kansas City Southern, St. Louis and San Francisco and Norfolk & Western. The market was unmistakably dull, transactions for the first hour aggregating less than 100,000 shares. Call money opened at 7 per cent.

Foreign exchange rates were higher, demand sterling advancing 1¼c to $3.93¾ at the opening. France and marks advanced a little.

IRREGULAR AT OPENING.

Prices moved irregularly as the opening, but the undertone was heavy at the start. Early fluctuations were small on the average but there were several issues which made material losses. They were Atlantic Gulf, Chandler, Steel Sugar, Royal Dutch and Crucible. They reached their lowest points in nearly four. Utah was a weak copper, selling at a new low for the year. But it had to decline a fraction only to attain it. Rich group, with the exception of Peru pers and rails, had one particularly weak stock. General Asphalt was the most conspicuous specialty in the professional. The most interesting phase of initial trading was the pressure upon Atlantic Gulf. It opened a trifle higher but selling orders, largely from the South, set it down quickly. There was great uncertainty as to what action its directors would take on the preferred dividend.

YEAR DIVIDEND CUTS.

Fear of dividend omissions or reductions is having an untoward influence upon the valuation of securities at present. Chandler was the stock affected by this kind of apprehension this morning. Industrial generally and corporations are facing a less year as earnings and the general disposition are less favorable to operate to conserve cash resources. Liquidation is still in progress and there is hope that it will be over soon. From the peak of prices to the bottom is a long way, but it is not to be believed that most of the distance has been covered. A rising tide of commodities are now selling below the cost of production. Business failures this year have been many and industrial activity is a very large amount. The foreign situation is certainly unsatisfactory. Most circumstances are calculated to sustain professional traders who are now selling for a decline, and their bearish position. The resistance be ing offered at present to raiders is due chiefly to technical conditions.

STEEL EARNINGS GREATLY REDUCED

According to trade reports steel earnings by independent steel producers have been greatly reduced and the U. S. Steel Corporation's showing for February is expected to compare poorly with that for January and December. The average of operations for independents for the latter will, it is expected, be below 40 per cent. of capacity. At present it is said not to much exceed 25 per cent.

The Steel Corporation is doing production, it operated during January and part of February at between 50 per cent. and 90 per cent., but at present percentage is said to be near 45. In this great industrial leader will eventually follow the lead of independents and cut steel product prices.

Cotton Market Opening

New York March 3.—Disregarding steady cables from Liverpool and Manchester, showing little change in prices, the market opened unchanged to 5 points lower on active months. Trade buying and covering met with selling. There was an absence of important demand. Operations were active from the start. Liverpool appeared to be a disposition to confine operations to small limits for the time being. Wall Street and some of the local operators were moderate buyers, largely on reports that the market during the early trading ruled steady at close to the initial levels. Opening prices were: March, 10.90; May, 11.40; June, 11.62; July, 11.76; October, 11.75; December, 11.83 bid; December, 12.37; January, 12.86.

Chicago Grain Market

Chicago, March 3.—Wheat opened 1c to 2c higher. Corn started unchanged to 1c higher and oats were 1c to 1¼c higher. Provisions opened a shade lower. Opening prices were: Wheat, March 1.68¾@1.68¾; May 1.69½; corn, May 71¼@71¾; July 69¾@70; oats, May 45¾@45¾; July 36¾; lard, May 13.47; July 12.85; ribs, May 11.06; 11.85 bid; December, 12.37; January, 12.86.

La Tuque -in English, "the hat"—is in the ring at the Arena tonight.

Boasting about two former members of the famous Sons of Ireland team, and a record which shows but one defeat and eight goals registered against it for the current season the La Tuque team of Quebec opens a two-game appearance in Boston with the B. A. A. as its initial opponent.

Sam Hughes and George McNaughton are the players who were seen here during the Sons of Ireland team's spectacular display at the old Arena, and who now are vying as forward line stars for the La Tuque array.

Gerald McNaughton, a brother of George, fills the remaining attacking position for the visitors, while two outer defence men of Conscherian proportions, in the persons of Lacroix and Mcgrain, and a brilliant goal tender, Duchene by name, complete the first string array which will oppose the Unicorns.

Despite the touted ability of the Quebec team, however, the locals are confident of victory. Frankie Downing's return to the lineup, which fature was inaugurated Saturday by the scoring of two of the Unicorn's five goals against Quaker City, the recovery of Jack Wylie and the reappearance of Johnny Murphy as alternate centre, will give the locals much more strength, skill and power than they were able to muster against the Aura Lee team, and that those qualities will show in the score is the belief of the players and B. A. A. supporters generally.

Queen's and Winnipeg Booked for Arena Games

Greater Boston hockey fans will have become well acquainted with the leading teams of Canada before the current season ends at the local arena.

The visit of La Tique this week will be followed by the coming of two Queen's College teams of Kingston, Ontario, for games with the local clubs next Monday and Tuesday night, while on the week following the Winnipeg Hockey Club, another speedy Canadian array, will perform twice at the Boston rink.

In addition to these bookings, the Ex Pacific coast team will appear later in the month, and negotiations are under way to import other stellar lights from across the border.

HOW COME

By GILL.

THE Carpentier-Dempsey fight is back in the limelight again. George McDonald, the English fight promoter, has come to the front with an offer of $750,000 to Tex Rickard for the rights to hold the battle in London. This is $250,000 more than the recent offer made by the Montreal managers. The battle must look good.

ACCORDING to a rumor in local fistic circles, Jack Johnson, the former heavyweight champion, is anxious to make his comeback in a Boston ring. Why pick on Boston. The fakirs, the frauds and the fighters have been nearly all weeded out since the Boxing Commission took charge of the game and it can get along very nicely without any outside help on the part of this self-confessed liar and fakir.

EDDIE MACK, manager of a large stable of box fighters, was among the spectators the other night when his champion, Johnny Clinton, was battling Young Sacco. The Mack entry seemed to have the better of it well in hand, but Eddie was very downhearted and morose. Several friends sat by him, and finally a friend inquired, "Don't you feel well?" "Never felt better," answered the sad-faced manager, "but ain't it h—— what a fellow has to pay for his income tax." The rich have their troubles as well as the poor.

HERE'S another one of these Mc-Auliffe stories. Just got it and think it will bear repeating:

Jack was at a meeting to arrange a match between himself and Billy Dacey. McAuliffe heard so many stories of Dacey being such a great fighter that he was up in the air. As the conference moved along Dacey took off his coat and McAuliffe noticed he had a gun. "Now you removed the last doubt I had of licking you," said Jack to Dacey. "I'll fight you anyway." "It was the sign of a coward," added McAuliffe.

PARKER TO BOX RALPH BRADY SATURDAY

Local Boy Now Managed by Ray Cass, Who Piloted Young Britt to Title

By JACK CONWAY.

Charley Parker, South End lightweight, has burst forth as the latest ring sensation. When the local youth first started his ring career, it looked as though he would reach the front ranks of his class.

Then just when Parker was in line to gain his share of the well-known pugilistic glory he was matched with Johnny Dundee and Benny Valgar. Lacking experience, Parker didn't get the world afire in these two contests. Incidentally, he stopped enough punches to hold up his forward surge in the grand old fistic scramble.

For a year following his contests with Dundee and Valgar, Parker battled with only fair success. This caused him to take a long layoff. He resumed campaigning under the banner of Ray Cass, who piloted Frankie (Young) Britt to the New England lightweight championship. Parker has engaged in six bouts since he started his come-back. And he has won them all. Cleveland Johnny Downes, Stockyards Johnny Rose and Young Tuohey were numbered among the local boy's victims.

Parker's next start will be with Ralph Brady at the Commonwealth A. A. Saturday night. Brady is one of the bright lights in his boxing division. He has fought Dundee, Jackson, Britt and the other star lightweights, and has met with only a few defeats. If Parker wins over Brady, there will be no getting away from the fact that Cass' new protege has landed with both feet in the centre of the pugilistic whirlpool.

George Brown and Dennis Battle at Lynn Tonight

Jack Murphy has arranged an attractive card for the Casino A. C. of Lynn for tonight. The feature contest of ten rounds will find Tony Dennis of Milwaukee battling with George Brown of New York. Dennis has disposed of most of the star lightweights in the Middle West. He recently changed his base of operations to Buffalo and continued his ring-end work. He is now booked to clash with Lew Tendler in Buffalo in two weeks. Dennis has collided with such well-known men as Jack Lawler, Johnny Mendelson, Otto Wallace, Joe Jawson and Bud Christians.

Brown recently made a big hit with Lynn fans by his good showing against Joe Adams. The New Yorker, although not a champion, has crushed the title hopes of many an aspirant for honors in the ring.

Johnny McGovern of Woburn will clash with Frankie Quinlan of Quincy in the semi-final of eight rounds. Al Cole of Waltham and Charley Mc-Hugh of Woburn will box six rounds as will Bill Sweeney and Young Gautro, two Lynn youths.

Valgar Opposes Jacks in Lowell Bout

Benny Valgar, French Flash, will oppose Freddy Jacks of England in a ten round bout at the Crescent A. A. of Lowell tonight. Inasmuch as Jacks recently bested Andy Chaney and Billy Defoe he is sure to make things mighty interesting for Valgar. The latter is now performing under the direction of Billy Gibson who piloted Benny Leonard to the world's lightweight championship.

The semi-final of ten rounds will find Bill McKenzie, veteran Roxbury middleweight battling with Wild Bill O'Brien of Chicago.

James H. Fitzpatrick to Direct Egan's Affairs

James H. Fitzpatrick, prominent Boston broker, will direct the affairs of Eddie Egan of Yale while the latter is in Boston for the national amateur boxing championships. Fitzpatrick, who is a licensed judge under the Boxing Commission rule in this State, is an ardent admirer of the great Yale ring star. Judging by the way Egan has been boxing in collegiate tournaments this Winter he will make a great bid for the honors in the heavyweight class of the title contests.

Josephs and Leonard in Fall River Go

Bobby Josephs, New England featherweight champion, will have Joe Leonard as an opponent in a ten-round bout at Fall River Saturday night. This mill should furnish the fans with plenty of spirited action. Josephs recently fought Billy Murphy of Staten Island at New Haven. The referee gave the verdict to Murphy on a foul, but according to accounts of the bout received by the writer Murphy was knocked out by a punch to the stomach.

Jeff Jordan of Los Angeles, the latest addition to Ellis Mack's stable of boxers, will have Jeff Smith of Bayonne, N. J., as an opponent in a ten-round bout at Worcester on Friday night. Jordan recently trounced Jack Savage and should be able to make things interesting for the hard-hitting Smith.

Vincent Martin, Cambridge boxer, has heard the call of the ring once more. He is busy training and will probably be matched to meet the winner of the Parker-Brady bout which takes place at the Commonwealth A. A. Saturday night.

Mickey Donovan, Brockton welterweight, will resume operations in the ring when he opposes Al Ketchel of Milwaukee in a ten-round bout at Quincy next Monday night.

MIKE O'DOWD READY TO FIGHT WILSON FOR TITLE

New York, March 3.—Mike O'Dowd is ready to fight Johnny Wilson at any time, any place or anywhere on a "winner-take-all-basis," says Paddy Mullins, O'Dowd's manager.

Stories of Famous Fights

When Kilbane Stopped Rivers

This is the forty-fourth of a series of "Old-Time Fights," written by authorities on pugilism who were famous in their day. Others will follow.

The story today tells of Johnny Kilbane's knockout of Joe Rivers in the sixteenth round of a sensational battle. It was fought at Vernon, Cal., September 4, 1911.

By H. W. WALKER

The all-conquering career of Joe Rivers, the sensational California featherweight, came to a spectacular ending when the Mexican, sitting fully-clad and brain dazed, frowned in by several thousand shrieking, crying, cheering, hysterical men, rolled slowly on his back as Referee Charley Eyton reached the count of ten, and, turning, held up Johnny Kilbane's trembling arm in token that the Cleveland boy was entitled to a knockout victory, in the sixteenth round of the scheduled twenty-round battle before the Pacific Athletic Club at Vernon.

At the beginning of the sixteenth, both boys started a fight. Johnny's straight punch landed in advance of Rivers' swing, the blow crashing squarely to the jaw.

Rivers' knees bent under him, his two arms came up in front of his face and he barked away as badly hurt that his distress was mistaken by many to be a raw attempt at stalling.

Kilbane Punches Fast

Kilbane sprang after his victim, fought him to the ropes and out into the ring again, sending in rights and left so quick that the eye could scarcely follow the attack.

Under this hurricane Rivers went to the floor in a sitting position, while the great crowd came to its feet with a roar of voices that must have been heard for a mile.

Rivers' famous face was a blank so far as expression was concerned, and his seconds ran about the ring like crazy men, calling in agonizing tones that might as well have been whispers, so far as Joe's understanding them, for their man to arise from for a count.

Rivers looked up at Eyton and as the referee reached "six" just a trace of understanding flashed across the beaten boy's features.

Rivers Sinks to Floor

On the count of "nine" Rivers came slowly to his feet to face a cool, determined and confident opponent.

Toward the end of the round the fallen man began to slowly sink, and as Eyton finished he dropped back, full length on the floor, save that his left arm rested under his head. The knockout was complete.

Senior Golfers Play in Pinehurst Tourney

Pinehurst, N. C., March 3 — Sixty-five entries have already been made for the seniors' tournament to be played here today and tomorrow.

This new event, fathered by Frank Presbrey, is arousing an amazing amount of interest, and there is little doubt it will be added to the Country Club's regular tournament schedule next year.

John A. Heydler, president of the National League, who has come here to play in the Spring tournament, is one of a hundred or more semi-youngsters who are bemoaning their sad fate in having under fifty-five, the minimum age for admission to the seniors' event.

FINE BOXING IN N. E. TITLE BOUTS

Sawyer Winner Over Sullivan in Feature Battle of Meeting, the 125-Pound Semi-Final

The New Champions

100 Pounds—Tommy Fall, Lowell.
118 Pounds—Ted Padgett, Lynn.
126 Pounds—Frank Sawyer, Boston.
138 Pounds—Charles Donovan, Dorchester.
146 Pounds—Henry C. Noble, Brockton.
158 Pounds—Dick Flanagan, Revere.
178 Pounds—Fred Bradley, Boston.
Heavyweight—Joseph O'Brien, Roxbury.

Twenty-two bouts were contested and three were defeated at the New England boxing championships in Mechanics Building. The boxing was of exceptionally fine grade, the majority of the battles being hard fought. Nobody would meet Fred Bradley of Roxbury in the 178-pound class so he is the champion by default. But the remainder of the new title holders had to earn their honors.

The best bout of the meeting occurred in the 126-pound class semi-final, Frank Sawyer of Boston defeating Harold Sullivan of South Boston in four stirring rounds. Sawyer forced his opponent in the first round and the latter came back gamely and at the end of third round the judge could not agree as to which of the boys had the advantage. In the extra round Sawyer shaded the South Boston boy and got the decision. He later won the final fray and the title.

WILLIAMS PLAYS JAP FOR FLORIDA NET TITLE

Palm Beach, Fla., March 3 —Ichiya Kumagea, Japanese tennis star, and R. Norris Williams meet today in the final match for the Florida singles championship. Both advanced easily through the semi-finals, Kumagae defeating Dr. William Rosenbaum, 6—2, 6—0, and Williams defeating Jarvis Adams, 6—1 8—6 6—1. Adams put up a fight in the second set which he won, but Williams gathered himself together in the third and took it handily.

MORAN LEADS REDS TO TRAINING CAMP

Cincinnati, March 3 — The Reds eleven of them, under the head of Manager Pat Moran, are on the way to Waco, Tex., where the Spring training will be done. Those in the party leaving here were: Pitchers Eavey, Kreuger Mac-Grand, Roettger and Fisher, Catcher Tom Conway, Infielders Schmahl and Schirmer and Outfielders Paskert Nee and Dawson.

New Haven, Ct., March 3.—For the first time this season Yale's oarsmen yesterday rowed outdoors and for the first time Head Coach Guy Nickalls was in charge of the drill. He took three varsity eights and the 150-pound crew down to the George Adee boathouse on the harbor, where all the crews worked out about four miles each in short stretches.

WORCESTER HORSEMEN ASK TRIAL BY JURY

Worcester, March 3.— Frank A. Sanderson, Albert A. Brussell and Joseph J. Roberts, widely known Worcester horsemen, have retained David P. O'Connell in the "Wenn C" case, the Worcester men A trial by jury in Cole of Cape Vincent, N. Y., against the Worcester man. A trial by jury is asked by the local men.

BOSTON BRAVES SEND BATS SOUTH

Hopeful Club Wielders Follow Tomorrow; Southworth Comes to Terms

By NICK FLATLEY.

Boston's baseball season was officially opened today when the Braves' bat, bags and trunks and things were tossed into a train and headed for Galveston. The athletes that live in the North and other members of the annual entourage set sail, so to speak, on the morrow.

Real activity, with all signed players ordered to report, will start Monday among the set noses, provided the chronic Braves' rain doesn't follow the Tribe down to the Gulf of Mexico. With new uniforms and everything for hat rooters. Leading representatives will go south, quite a strange nickname this season, but it's still a bit early to make selections.

Speaking of signed players reminds us that Hill Southworth, the star who came here in the Maranville trade, has come to terms. It was evidently agreed among the magnates that no news would be handed out regarding holdouts this spring, but Bill crossed the dope by airing his views in his native Arkansas, via telegram.

Southworth's Kick

His screech accomplished something—new terms were wired and his telegraphic acceptance has been received at headquarters. Bill is all booked to be a star in the Braves out field which is a very tough assignment—unless Maranville has the fatal habit of chasing fly balls into the left field bleachers. Judging by the way he has been going in practice, he will be a regular fixture in left field.

Grant Hogeful About Inner Defence

The pitching and the outfield has been the trouble with the team for these many seasons and now with Bill Sarlat gone, the latter series are not what you could call strengthened. But Freddie Grant, who has horned over to New York to interview Richard Rudolph, still maintains that the Braves are at hand in sufficient to build up a pretty good ball club.

He admits that he hasn't been able to get much championship material, but has every confidence in what Manager Mitchell can do with the birds already on the roster. Which probably has something to do with the presidential excursion to West Nyack, N. Y., where Rudolph Richard takes chinkens for the fun as well as the profit of it.

Dick Will Be Big Help With Pitchers

With a store of last untried crop of hurlers, the shrewd Dick would be invaluable. What he doesn't know about the art doesn't exist. He's a great ball player and manager likewise and if he comes to terms will go South determined to show that his slump last season was merely temporary.

Mitchell and Rudolph together should be the best combination in the league as far as handling pitchers goes Mitch knows how to drive 'em and Rudy to tell them how to do it. Ray Dyer, the new

"Stafford," he said, "you're in trouble. Unless I miss my guess you need help yourself. Some sort Tell me this—Have you any other money?"

"No!" muttered the young man, struggling away.

"Have you work—plans?"

"No—no work. I don't want—need—"

The hand on his shoulder was firm, strong. It was friendly, like the voice. It was unnerving. He thought—until this moment he hadn't weakened—"I can't go like this. Have to catch a later train. It'll be all the same." And sat down.

It was hard to evade Mr. Listerly's keen questions. And the warmth that his voice and the touch of his strong hand had stirred in Henry's heart unreading through his thoughts, fanned by his own swift imagination, brought confusion; in which the publisher, could he have known the glowing image of himself that was rapidly growing up in the thoughts of the pale dispirited young man who sat limp, moody, curiously difficult in the leather chair, would have shared

In the end he agreed to go to the bank in the morning; beyond that he was not to be known as a party to the transaction. And he further agreed to begin work on the biography of James H. Canley.

He left in weak bewilderment. His life had been saved. He was to have another chance; not miserably alone this time, but with kindly support. Mr. Guard, it appeared had great faith in him. He found difficulty in believing it.

He got out of the building without meeting Margie and stole into his apartment. He couldn't have faced her. He slept like a child, and slipped out in the morning, bags in hand, down past Margie's door, before she was up. He saw her morning paper lying there.

He had refused to go again to the office; he and Mr. Listerly were to meet at the City Trust Company at eleven

He checked his bags at the hotel. He would find quarters later, somewhere on the Hill. They were paying him enough. And he could put aside something every week toward Margie's fifty dollars

Mr. Listerly, when he had gone that night, tapped his fingers on the desk; shook his head. A queer case! But interesting—oh, interesting! Hitt would be disappointed. Have to do something about that. He framed a note to the librarian; then decided to let the thing slip along and explain itself. Hitt, after all, had his job. And they couldn't both write the biography.

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

The Honorable Tim Is Perturbed to the Point of Profanity. And Mr. Quatters Joins the Hunt

HARVEY O'BELL was on the Board of the City Trust Company. Like Hannibal Simmons, first vice-president of City Trust, he was an ardent golfer. The two were interrupted, while playing the eighth hole, by a passing shower. They holed out, then stepped over to the county highway, which bounded the course on the west, and sat in a three-walled trolley shelter.

Mr. Simmons, who, like so many bakers and mathematicians, was of a verse-writing, imaginative turn, glanced about quizzically at the hundreds of initials and inscriptions carved in the walls and on the bench, produced his own knife, and set unsmilingly to work in the nearest smooth space

Neatly he cut out the letters—"H. S." By way of embellishment. Then, with a decoration beneath them.

O'Bell, who was not whimsical in spirit, watched him in awed good humor; rather admired his neatness of hand. Thus, two leading citizens occupied themselves during a hot and unpleasant half-hour. Then, the shower over, they went on to the ninth tee.

Mr. Simmons, a little grizzled man, with the first norm-rimmed spectacles ever seen in the city outside the Historical Society museum, detected, as he walked, on the initials, "H. S" and on a coincidence that on its face seemed hardly worth a thought.

"An odd thing," he said. "Bob Listerly opened a special account this morning. Twenty thousand. It was a Chicago cashier's check to a young fellow named Hugh Stafford."

O'Bell knit his brows a little; then composed his face and walked on For Simmons wasn't a man you told everything to. He held confidences; for instance, that politics was in some measure a thing apart, with which a gentleman didn't soil his hands. That your political machine might in reality be a device, a bunker, standing between the vaguely, incoherently excitable mass of ordinary citizens and organized, predatory wealth; that the political boss didn't live whose power could be explained by personal ability or even trickery, he seemed unable to grasp.

Simmons was proud of his city, and with considerable reason. If the street-cars were dirty, noisy, crowded to the bumpers and (on occasion) to the roofs, he took them as a casual fact of life and was glad that he had rarely to ride in them. If County Railways held perpetual franchises, for which it made no return to the community, and if, with these as a basis, it was able to pile bond issue on bond issue, stock on stock, why this, too, seemed a fact of life. Besides, he had found the bonds and stocks personally profitable. . . . Mayor Tim was to him a rather despicable creature whom irresponsible people insisted on electing and re-electing. The trouble appeared to be that too many were allowed to vote. Of the elaborately organized machinery for securing the votes and for destroying those of the opposition he knew nothing. It was simply a distasteful subject. If any one had told him that O'Rell (with certain others) had a hand in directing this machinery he would have regarded the assertion as an insult to an able and high-minded friend. If any one had laid before him an analysis of the situation leading to the simple conclusion that it is five times more profitable to put up the money for a lax, dishonest city administration than to submit to a sound and sweeping enforcement of existing law, he would have been pained, but not convinced. His mind, keen in banking routine, clever at verification, would have stopped short of the necessary general conclusions

"This Stafford just endorsed the check blank. Bob wrote his name on it, and took a certificate of deposit. Said something about his being used toward the public baths. An outright gift. Queer. And the young fellow is to write the Canley biography, at thirty-five a week. Seemed glad to get it. He starts working tomorrow, up at Bob house, in Jim's study. Amme is to turn over the papers. We're to make the weekly payments and charge to the estate."

Teeing His Ball

O'Rell's remark, by way of reply, came while the banker was teeing his ball. It was

"My guess is that you'll come back to the Conqueror ball, Han. You certainly can't do anything the distance out of those things."

But before half past seven that evening he called up the Mayor. Shortly after eight Tim's city attorney called up Owen Quatters. The attorney for the painter interests suggested that the Mayor come around. At 8:15 he was still talking which suggestion Quatters called O'Rell and got the facts. He always got the facts.

The Mayor appeared at 10:36. Quatters himself opened the door, and after one glance at the wild person before him, hurried him back back to his library.

"Better have a cigar," remarked Mr. Quatters, whose method was that of casual good humor. "And sit down. What's the matter?"

Mayor Tim sat down; then sprang up. It was a moment in which he had to be on edge.

"Bob Listerly's double-crossed me!" he cried dramatically.

"How do you figure that out, Tim?"

"Well, I ask you—didn't he agree to fire that young fellow?"

"Fire who?"

"This Stafford. I ask you—didn't he agree to fire him?"

"My impression is that we wrote the retraction he printed. And that stated that he had no job to fire. He's been discharged, didn't it?"

"It did. But now see what he's done, My God, I'm—"

"What's he done?" Quatters made it a rule to ask, never to tell

"He's put the man in to write the Jim Canley book. That's what he's done."

"Stafford writes well enough, Tim." Quatters was unsmiling

The mayor strode impatiently up the window and back, thrust his fingers through his hair; sputtered angrily

Just Has to

"It can't, can't it? Well, it just has! Look here, Mr. Quatters, I'm a plain-spoken man. I'll talk to the point. I know Jim Canley. He was my best friend. We had things in common. He was a man who kept a tight hand on all his own affairs. You know that."

Quatters nodded

"Oh, he used Amme and the rest. But he kept his own papers. I know that. There's no safer place in his study on the Hill. Many's the evening I've sat there with him. Talking. Intimate. Like you and I are talking now." His manner and voice dropped into mystery. He moved closer; shook his hair back; dropped a low tone into the chair. Quatters reflected—"Tim should have gone on the stage."

"It's full of secrets, that safe. Jim Canley's own political papers—business papers—deals here in town—Harvey's secrets—the senator's—your—mine."

His voice rose to a climax on that speech; lingered dramatically on the "yours," as it thought tremulously on the "mine."

The mayor threw back his head; sighed; dropped into a chair.

"I won't stand for it!" he muttered

"Well, how're you going to stop it? The choice of the biographer was left to Bob in the will. All that side of the Estate."

The Eternal Question Mark

OF course you don't know what the answer is—no one does—that's one of the little privileges that the eternal feminine reserves for herself. But of this you may be sure—the question has something to do with the canny Dan Cupid who's always hovering around where the heart of a maid is concerned. If you ask him he may give the answer, and then again he may not.

CHAPTER LX.

Copyright, 1921, Star Company.

MARY THROCKMORTON did not leave her room again that day.

When, at noon, her mother sent up word that luncheon was ready her daughter told the maid that she did not want any luncheon. When her mother herself appeared a little later and urged her to eat, Mary refused and turned her head wearily on the pillow—for she had been lying on her couch since morning.

"I don't want anything to eat!" she insisted. "My head is bursting."

"It is because you have cried so much," her mother said. "Do stop it, honey. I had to stop crying. Your father told me he would go mad if I kept it up."

"It is difficult to do with you. Dad approves of all you do—but he said awful things to me, mother. And then—Pierre—" and the tears started again.

"Peter did say awful things, dear," Sophia admitted. "But he did not mean them."

"But I struck him!" the girl wailed. "Mother—I don't know how I ever did such a thing! I never knew I was going to. Honestly. But I was so angry! Now it can't be undone! And Pierre and I were always such good chums—and now all that's done with!"

"Oh, no!" her mother soothed. "Later, when Peter gets over his rage, you can apologize to him and—"

"I won't apologize," Mary declared, "until he asks my pardon for that he said. Mother, please leave me alone!"

Still Irritable

Sophia went out of the room, but returned five minutes later with a glass with some liquid in it.

"Drink this, my dear," she said firmly.

"What is it?"

"Bromide. It will ease your headache."

Mary gulped it down and stretched herself wearily. "I wish I could get a nap!" she moaned.

"Perhaps you can now," the mother said.

An hour later, when Sophia Throckmorton opened the door and looked in, Mary was fast asleep. The mother laid a slumber-robe over the prostrate figure and crept noiselessly from the room. She felt sure that an old woman as she went on into her own chamber.

For hours Mary slept heavily. Peter, coming in late in the afternoon, paused for a moment outside her door and listened

He was in no hurry to be willing to make the first move toward reconciliation. Yet he wondered, a most anxiously, if his sister were at home, and if she had put it as miserable a day as he had.

He had left the house this morning determined not to return. But as he walked the streets the mists cleared from his brain and he saw that he was behaving like a fool.

His style of living during the past eighteen months had not been of the type to make a man feel that he can, single-handed, fight the world. His moral muscles—like those of his over-fed and pampered body—were soft and flaccid.

He Thinks of Theo

This morning's scene, instead of spurring him on to a manly endeavor for an independent existence, had roused in him a sense of resentment and the conviction that the world was just to him. Everybody had turned against him—even Mary, she had forgotten what he had said about her, but what Mary had said could not have warranted her shocking action.

Thank Heaven, Theo — whom Mary had spoken of as "a chorus girl"—would never be capable of such a vulgar outburst!

The thought of Theo depressed him still more. He dared not try to see her after that dreadful story in the newspapers. All day he avoided meeting any of his acquaintances.

Now that he was back at home he washed, changed his collar and necktie, and brushed his clothes. He would not go through the form of dressing for the evening.

Sitting in an easy chair, he read the evening paper and smoked cigarette after cigarette.

He listened intently when, after a while, his mother ascended the stairs and went into Mary's room.

"Your father is not in yet," Peter heard her say to her daughter. "We will wait a few minutes longer for him, for he must come —"

It was after 7:30 that the front doorbell rang. Peter listened as the maid went to the door, opened, then closed it and passed on to the library, where her mistress was waiting the master of the house.

"Oh, Miss Mary, please come downstairs quick! Mrs. Throckmorton says she's had bad news and wants you and Mr. Peter right away."

A HINT of humor crept into the bishop's blue eyes, which were watery, yet strong, with heavy creases in the corners. He indicated by a little gesture three bundles of envelopes, bound by rubber bands on the corner of his blotter

"Hodder," he said, "see what a lot of trouble you have made for me in my old age! All those are about you."

"I am sorry, sir," Hodder answered, "to have caused you any worry or inconvenience."

"Nonsense," said the bishop, "I have had too much smooth sailing for a servant of Christ. Indeed, I have come to that conclusion."

Hodder did not reply. He was moved, even more by the bishop's manner and voice than his words. And the opening of their conversation was unexpected. The old man put on his spectacles, and drew from the top of one of the bundles a letter

From Vestryman

"This is from one of your vestrymen, Mr. Gordon Atterbury," he said, and proceeded to read it slowly. When he had finished he laid it down.

"Is that, according to your recollection, Mr. Hodder, a fairly accurate summary of the sermon you gave when you resumed the pulpit at the end of the Summer?"

"Yes, sir," answered the rector, "it is surprisingly accurate, with the exception of two or three inferences which I shall explain at the proper moment."

"Mr. Atterbury is to be congratulated on his memory," the bishop observed a little dryly. "And he has saved me the trouble of reading more. Now what are the inferences to which you object "

Hodder stated them. "The most serious one," he added, "is that which he draws from my attitude on the virgin birth. Mr. Atterbury insists, like others who cling to that dogma, that I have become what he vaguely calls an Unitarian. He seems incapable of grasping my meaning, that the only true God the average known, the world has ever known, is the God in Christ, is the Spirit in Christ, and in there not by any material proof, but because we recognize it spiritually. And that doctrine and dogma, ancient speculation as to how, definitely, that spirit came to be in Christ, are fruitless and unchristian today. Mr. Atterbury and others seem actually to confuse my identification of our Lord's Spirit with the so-in conscience as well as the individual consciousness of our time."

The bishop nodded.

"Hodder," he demanded abruptly, leaning forward over his desk, "have you had this thing happen?"

"You mean, sir——" There was in the bishop's voice a note almost pathetic.

Unlooked for Appeal

"I do not mean to ask you anything you may deem too personal. And God forbid, as I look at you, as I have known you, that I should doubt your sincerity. I am not your inquisitor, but your bishop and your friend, and I am asking for your confidence. Six months ago you were, apparently, one of the best orthodox rectors in the diocese. I realize that you are not an impulsive, sensational man, and I am all the more anxious to learn from your own lips something of the influences, of the processes which has changed you, which have been strong enough to impel you to risk the position you have achieved."

By this unlooked-for appeal Hodder was not only disarmed, but smitten with self-reproach at the unexpected greatness of soul with which he was being received before he began to stretch the misgivings he had felt from the early days of his rectorship of St. John's; the helplessness and failure which by degrees had come over him. He realized how it had become apparent to him that by far the greater part of his rich and fashionable congregation were Christians only in name, who kept their religion in a small and impervious compartment where it did not interfere with their lives. He pictured the yearning and perplexity of those who had come to him for help, was could not accept the old explanations, and had gone away empty; and he had not been able to make Christians of the poor who attended the parish house. Finally, trusting in the bishop's discretion, he spoke of the revelations he had unearthed in Dalton Street, and how these had completely destroyed his confidence in the Christianity he had preached, and how he had put his old faith to the test of unprejudiced modern criticism, philosophy and science. . . .

"I am an old man," said the bishop, "and whatever usefulness I have had is almost finished. But if I were young today, I should pray God for the courage and insight you have shown.

"If you had needed an advocate with me," the bishop continued, "you could not have had one to whom counsel I would more willingly have listened than that of Horace Bentley. He wrote asking to come and see me, but I went to him in Dalton street the day I returned. And it gives me satisfaction Mr. Hodder, to confess to you freely that he has taught me, by his life, more of true Christianity than I had ever learned in all my experience elsewhere."

Source of Confidence

"It is not that I wouldn't trust you," the bishop went on. "I have watched you, I have talked to Asa Waring, I have read the newspapers. In spite of it all, you have kept your head, you have not compromised the dignity of the Church. But oh, my friend, I beg of you to bear in mind that you are launched upon deep waters, that you have raised up many enemies—enemies of Christ—who seek to destroy you. You are still young, and the average known, the world has ever known, is the God in Christ, is the Spirit in Christ, and in there not by any material proof, but because we recognize it spiritually. And that doctrine and dogma, ancient speculation as to how, definitely, that spirit came to be in Christ, are fruitless and unchristian today. But oh, my friend, I beg of you to bear in mind that you are launched upon deep waters, that you have raised up many enemies—enemies of Christ—who seek to destroy you. You are still young, and the average compromising experiment to which you are pledged, of freeing your church, of placing her in the position of power and influence in the community which is rightfully hers, is as yet untried. And no stone will be left unturned to bring it about. You have faith—you have made me feel it as you have not felt faith which will save you from bitterness in personal defeat. You may not reap the victory, or even see it in your lifetime. But of this I am sure, that you will be able to say, with Paul, 'I have planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the increase.' Whatever happens, you may count upon my confidence and support. I can only wish that I were younger, that my eyes were stronger, and that I had always perceived the truth as clearly as I see it now."

The bishop had risen involuntarily while these words were being spoken. They were indeed a benediction, and the intensity of his feeling warned him of the inadequacy of any reply. They were pronounced in sorrow, yet in hope, and there brought home to him, sharply, the nobility of the bishop's own sacrifice.

"And you, sir?" he asked.

"Ah," answered the bishop, "with this I shall have had my life. I am content."

What Baby Said

One dollar will be paid for each letter printed.

The young mother was bathing her baby when a neighbor's little girl came into the room, carrying a doll, and stood watching the operation for some time. The doll was the worse for wear, being minus an arm and a leg. Finally she said to the mother of the baby: "How long have you had your baby?" "Three months," said the proud mother The little girl glanced at her own battered infant. "My, but you have kept it nice," she said with an envious sigh. MAY CRANE,

Goat Getters

One dollar will be paid for each letter printed.

This really got my goat. A week ago Monday morning was very stormy. Along toward noon the sun appeared, so I decided to hang out my wash. I noticed after I had it almost out that it got very very dark, then dark as night. Suddenly it poured and it snowed. So I hurriedly took all the clothes in and put them in the set tubs. In ten minutes more the sun was out for the rest of the day. Would that get a person's goat?

Stingiest Person

One dollar will be paid for each letter printed.

In the city I formerly lived in was a well-to-do man, a doctor by profession, whose home had been troubled with mice. He wanted the mice caught in an inexpensive way, so he bought a mouse trap, caught the mice, and returned the trap to the storekeeper, having his money refunded. MRS. A. B. CRIPP,

The Adventures of Ann

By Hal Coffman

CHAPTER LXXXII.

AS Ann hurriedly got ready to go riding at Mrs. DeVera's invitation she wondered who had picked up the note she had thrown through the bars of her window. If DeVera or any of the servants had found it Ann knew things might go bad for her in this place where she virtually was a prisoner. As she, Mrs. DeVera and the ever attentive maid went down stairs to the waiting automobile they met DeVera himself stroking his black, bristling beard as he contemplatively looked out the window toward the city of Rio below his home.

He smiled at them and, bowing very low to Ann, said: "We are trying to make it as pleasant as possible for you, though we have to keep you in restraint until the great day when I shall be President of the new republic." Then, saying something in Spanish to the powerful maid, they got into the big automobile and were whisked away in the direction of the city.

As they drove through the grounds Ann looked in vain for some sign of the man who had left the note for her in the shrubbery. But this man had waited and had seen Ann toss the answering note from her window. After procuring it he had hurried to a hidden car further down the hill and was back in Rio by the time they had left the house.

* * *

Ann, Mrs. DeVera and the maid drove about the beautiful city and out around the harbor. Seeing Harwood's yacht at anchor, Ann at first did not recognize it. There was something familiar about the beautiful vessel, however, and then it came to her all of a sudden whose boat it was. She wondered what he was doing in Rio and thought to herself, "Even in my present predicament I wouldn't want him to help me if he should offer to do so." Then she thought of the mysterious woman of long ago and the way Harwood had treated her. As they arrived home again after the ride the first person Ann saw was Harwood seated on the veranda talking to DeVera.

Rules of the Movie Play Title Test

The Boston American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser's new Movie Play Title Test is a test of skill and judgment open to all readers of the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, irrespective of age, in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by these two newspapers to those persons who submit the largest percentage of correct titles in the 40 pictures to be published in each day consecutively in the Daily American and Sunday Advertiser.

All employes of the Boston American, the Boston Sunday Advertiser and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The Test will consist of 40 pictures, representing the title of a Movie Picture Play, to be printed one each day in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, first picture, Sunday, February 27, 1921.

Participation in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser will not debar anyone from entering this test.

Every participant or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of printed, but each must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award, and not more than one award shall be given to any one family.

Each and every title must be neatly written or printed upon the coupons found in the Boston American and Boston Sunday Advertiser, with a pen or pencil copy of same, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each title blank.

Do not send your titles in "list" form, i. e., do not write titles under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are not complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct solutions, giving weight to skill and judgment.

In case of a tie, awards will be made on the merit of the neatness, accuracy and promptness, and if the tie remains, duplicate awards for the identical percentage will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your titles from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test comes will stand as better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American Movie Play Title Headquarters at No. 84 Summer street, Boston, Mass., either by mail or in person, within the specified time, which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be legibly addressed as follows: "Movie Play Title Editor, No. 84 Summer street, Boston 6, Mass., P. O. Box 220," and each envelope or package must bear the name and address of the sender legibly written or stamped on the upper left-hand corner.

As all pictures in the Test will contain written or printed matter, it will be absolutely necessary that the package in which titles are sent be posted at letter rates, as this will insure their prompt delivery to the proper destinations. The Boston American, and the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserve the right to refuse to consider any sets of titles on which charges for postal delivery are not fully prepaid.

There will be no title or answer book to buy. Lists of Movie Titles will be printed in the Boston American and in the Boston Sunday Advertiser. This list somewhat will contain among others the correct titles.

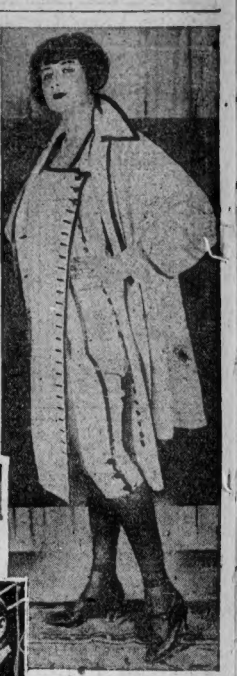
Participants may obtain further information regarding the rules governing the Movie Play Title Test by calling at the Movie Play Title Editor, No. 84 Summer street, Boston 6, Mass. Questions will be answered as far as possible through the columns of the Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser. If participants desire personal replies, they should enclose sufficient postage for such a reply, or they may phone Main 6180 or call in person.

The Boston American or the Boston Sunday Advertiser reserves the right to make any changes in, or additions to, these conditions that may be deemed necessary for fairly and properly conducting the Test, and the decision of the Boston American Play Title Editor on any question which may arise will be absolutely final, and the entry of a participant is a complete acceptance of all conditions and regulations now made or to be made.

DETAILS OF THE MOVIE PLAY TITLE TEST, WITH NAMES OF THE CO-OPERATING THEATRES, WILL BE FOUND ON PAGE 7

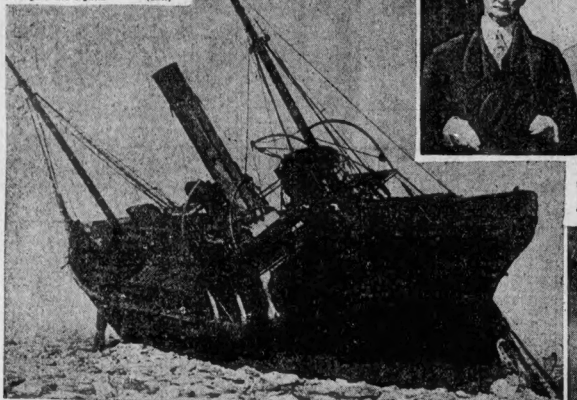
SEAGOING 'BUS IN VALPARAISO—A bunch of our gobs took possession of the attic of this rickety vehicle when the fleet touched Chili recently, and proceeded to investigate the sights. (Int.)

SINN FEIN HOSTAGE—William Sears is a Sinn Fein Member of Parliament from South Mayo. He was recently seized by the Military Police in Dublin and carried along for protection when they marched the streets. If trouble started Mr. Sears would have been a quick victim. But he kept right on smiling all the time. He is pictured here chatting with two of his lady companions. (U. & U.)



SPORT COSTUME IS CORRECT—This was one of the gowns exhibited at the New York fashion show. It's a convertible street and sport costume. Snappy, but neat, eh? (Wide World.)

BROUGHT BACK DAVIS CUP—The two Williams, Tilden and Johnston, were accorded a wonderful reception at Frisco when they came from Australia with the world's greatest tennis trophy. Even a champion World Series ball team wouldn't have attracted a larger crowd. Left to right are: W. B. Alexander, Mayor Rolph, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, "Bill" Tilden and J. C. Rolph. (Wide World.)



HIGH AND DRY—That's what you might say of conditions in this country, but this happens to be the steam trawler Kennet of Grimsby, tossed on the coast of Northumberland. Tide went out and left her stranded. (U. & U.)

AIR MAILMAN DOES DOUBLE SHIFT—This is Jack Knight, the pilot who drove his plane all the way from Salt Lake City to Chicago, when his relief at the Omaha station was not ready. He brought the mail in on time. (Int.)

HAVE MY CARD?—Sure will. The girls have now devised a card case that hitches on just below the knee. Looks reasonable, does it not? Calfskin would seem to be the proper material. (Wide World.)

DUBLIN STREET GUARDS—The Black and Tans who patrol the streets in troubled Ireland are all armed with the new Winchester rifle. They shoot to kill on the slightest provocation. (Keystone.)

HURT WITH BIRDS, NOT SHOTGUNS, IN ASIA—Falconry is still popular in Central Asia, where the sport originated centuries ago. In the old days the big leaguers boasted about their flocks of falcons as they do today about their horses or their collars. This shows the falcon returning from the flight with a rabbit in his clutches. The birds are trained to the hunter's whistle. (U. & U.)

YOUTHFUL GENIUS — Little Helen Sterle, nine-year-old San Francisco girl, has just returned from Europe, where she studied violin in France, Germany and Italy. (Int.)

MRS. Why Be Afraid of Good Food?

Eat What You Like Best But Follow It With a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet.

When the stomach sours or becomes gassy, with heartburn, it needs the alkaline effect to offset the acid condition. This you get from one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Relief is usually prompt. The regular use of these tablets after meals gives the stomach and small intestine substantial help to digest food and you will then be hold enough to eat baked beans, fried eggs, sausage, buckwheat cakes and many other things you thought would make you feel miserable. Go to any drug store and you will then eat whatever you like and be fortified against the acid, sour stomach due to indigestion or dyspepsia.

TAX DEDUCTIONS ALLOWED ON BAD DEBTS

Personal Loans, However, Which Cannot Be Collected Are Not Exempted

Collector John J. Mitchell of the Internal Revenue office today pointed out that there is a big distinction in the difference between a bad debt and a personal loan to a friend. A personal loan which becomes non collectable is regarded as a gift and is not deductable, according to the collector.

"In order that a debt may be claimed as a deduction it must be a bona-fide debt usually evidenced by an interest bearing note and proven uncollectable," he stated. "Circumstances must indicate that the debt is worthless and that legal action to enforce payment would, in all probability, not result in the satisfaction of execution on a judgment.

MUST BE CHARGED OFF.

"If books are kept, it must be charged off within the year for which the deduction is claimed and no longer considered an asset or carried as such on the books.

"Items purported have been known to charge off as bad a debt an amount which due to a reversal of the debtor's circumstances at a later time, is liquidated. If money is loaned to a corporation which afterward becomes bankrupt and goes out of existence this debt may be considered absolutely worthless and claimed as a deduction, but it should be remembered that the loss is not sustained the moment bankruptcy proceedings are instituted, but when it is determined that the debt is uncollectable.

UNPAID WAGES EXCLUDED.

"Only the difference between the amount received in distribution of the assets of a bankrupt and the amount of the claim may be deducted as a bad debt.

"Unpaid wages, salaries, rents and similar items cannot be deducted as worthless debts unless the income each item represents has been included as taxable income the same year the deduction is sought or a previous year."

Business 'Treating' Is Tax Exempt

Did you know, Mr. Business Man, that money spent "entertaining out-of-town customers" to get their goodwill may be deducted when you come to pay your Federal income tax.

Internal Revenue Collector John J. Mitchell made the announcement today, in response to many inquiries.

Other business expenses, which may be deducted, are cost of advertising, amount of payroll, cost of light, fuel and telephone and operation of delivery trucks.

A professional man can deduct money spent on his auto in making professional calls; dues to societies and expenses to conventions of fellow practitioners and cost of equipment.

Two Years Keep Able Woman Off Force

Miss Anna Coughlan, No. 16 Seven Pines avenue, North Cambridge, is a disappointed but eligible police woman. Eight others who passed the civil service examinations will shortly receive appointments to the force, but Miss Coughlan did not try to deny the two years that just took her over the age limit set in Boston. Miss Coughlan is not despairing, however, for there will be appointments to the Metropolitan police later on, as well as to the force in nearby cities.

Old Hat Bargaining

The Allies and Germany Are at It.

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

Without stove-pipe hat, or uniforms, representatives of the German Republic are in England to make the best bargain they can with the allies.

They now offer seven billion five hundred million dollars in place of the fifty-five billions demanded.

It is just seven and a half times as much as the Germans took from France in the war of 1870.

The bargaining will go on, after the fashion of gentlemen buying and selling second-hand coats. It is not probable that the Germans will escape with as small an indemnity as seven thousand five hundred millions. It is certain that they will not pay fifty-five thousand millions.

Just what Germany COULD pay, nobody knows. When Bismarck demanded a thousand million dollars from France, he thought, it is said, that France couldn't pay, and he planned to take more territory. The Frenchmen, peasants especially, subscribed the thousand millions, FOURTEEN TIMES OVER.

The money was shipped in metal, much of it by the carload, in silver five-franc pieces. The allies demand gold, but they demand much more than there is in the whole world. They will have to modify the demand or take it in small instalments.

Meanwhile, France is moving troops and artillery in the direction of important German cities. It would be interesting to know just what is planned.

There will, of course, be shooting in the streets, for demonstrations on the part of the population would make that inevitable. But there cannot be any real war with a disarmed nation.

France probably will take possession of German cities and more German territory, and perhaps undertake to chop off the whole of south Germany. That is said to be the plan of Foch. Whether England would approve, is not certain. France might possibly become too big, as in Napoleon's day. That wouldn't suit Lloyd George, any more than Napoleon suited Pitt.

As you read the news from Europe you are following the winding-up of one of the greatest events in history.

How many new wars are to be created by this "settlement," only Heaven knows.

Beware of Europe, Workers

Men Work Harder? Possibly—But.

Copyright, 1921, Star Company

Once more, workers, manufacturers, and owners of industrial stock, look out for Europe's competition.

The latest is that the Krupps, formerly big cannon makers, have got a contract to make ten thousand steel car wheels for the Argentine State railway.

While you are thinking that over you might wonder how the Argentine Government can run a railroad, when the glorious United States doesn't know how to do it, and must have it done by subsidised private gentlemen.

Some may suggest off-hand that workers must PRODUCE more. But CAN they in the steel business?

Many men in the steel industry work TWELVE hours every day, SEVEN DAYS a week, and work TWENTY-FOUR HOURS CONSECUTIVELY when shifts are changed from day to night work.

You could not expect much more than that, unless you took out the workmen's insides and replaced them with a dynamo or a gas engine.

Keep Ready, Be Peaceful

That's the Motto for the U. S.

Mr. Denby, who is to be President Harding's Secretary of the Navy, says this country needs a navy as big as anybody's. He probably means that this nation will have a navy a little bigger than anybody's, a sensible view.

Half a dozen countries in Europe, and one very energetic country in Asia, are uncertain as to the direction in which they will shoot next. Under such conditions, it is a good idea for a quiet home-loving non-fighting nation like this, to keep ready in case of trouble.

Mr. Denby should combine with his shipbuilding plan the securing of naval oil supplies for a century to come. He will find interesting information in Lord Fisher's book concerning English views on the importance of oil—much more important than coaling stations. The English know, they have been at it a long time and they are intelligent men. Oil to a navy is as important as cannon and powder.

INCREASING YOUR INCOME

When you consider how you can make more money you think in large terms and forget the moderate amounts which make the big aggregate.

Instead of figuring on what your own ability and business judgment are worth you magnify your usefulness and capabilities.

You seldom think of the small or fair-sized income, but your mind dwells on the big money without the idea of the work and constant study which have developed the big money.

Most of your plans are dreams—not practical plans.

It is strange, but usually true, that the man who has had to work hard all his life for a moderate sized income seldom thinks about a fair increase or proportion of saving.

His sense of proportion is off and he thinks that with a slight or reasonable increase he ought to be wealthy soon.

More money brings more obligations, and the practical man knows that one must creep before walking and studies and develops ways to increase income by safe and sure investment and alertness to opportunities within reason, so far as his income is concerned.

More Truth Than Poetry

Easy-Goin' Ezra

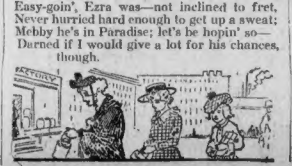
By S. E. KISER

EZRA TUPPER had a ca'm, easy-goin' style;
Hardly had the energy for a hearty smile;
Knew him from his boyhood up—always just the same;
Never seemed to worry much; took things as they came;
In the Spring, when other folks went to breakin' ground,
He would wait for better days, merely settin' 'round.

FARM was in the finest shape when his father died;
Barns and orchards—everything—should have 'roused his pride;
But he used to set around corners up in town—
Beats old Nick how quick a place gets to runnin' down!
Buildin's leaked and soil got poor; only weeds would grow;
Plastered on a mor'gage, then let his cattle go.

SORT of dried up—Ezra did—one day blew away,
Leavin' nothin' for his folks but some debts to pay;
Easy-goin'; never meant hurm to man or beast,
Went to heaven straight, I s'pose—hope he did, at least;
Mebby he is wearin' wings; mebby he is crowned;
Mebby God is glad to see Ezra settin' 'round.

EZRA'S widow's workin' out; both girls workin', too;
Had to take 'em out of school—nothin' else to do;
Easy-goin', Ezra was—not inclined to fret,
Never hurried hard enough to get up a sweat;
Mebby he's in Paradise; let's be hopin' so—
Durned if I would give a lot for his chances, though.



More 'Petting' Parties

The secret's out!

More about those "petting parties" of "love-hungry" camel-walking, corset-checking girls at the Brown University dances in next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser. Brown University undergrads tell what they allege to be "the whole truth about these disgusting affairs."

"These girls are popularizing indecency," said one of the editors of the Brown Daily Herald, the college newspaper, to the writer of this article in next Sunday's Magazine Section. "They are going so fast they don't know when to stop."

"What do the love-hungry do?" one Brown man was asked.

"Everything," he replied; and his explanation of this sweeping expression constitutes a long and illuminating article which forms a sad commentary on our modern life.

Check their corsets?

"Oh, yes," said the checking boy at a Providence dance, "regularly. There's over a hundred pairs parked here tonight. They check 'em regularly, and often the escort carries them home in his pocket when the dance is over."

And after the dancing, where questionable dances are alleged to be the feature of the evening, come the "petting parties," the young men declare, where the amorous maidens urge the youths not to be "backward."

And even the youths themselves conclude: "It makes you wonder what the next generation will find to amuse themselves if the sated, blase, frivolous little girls of today are to be their mothers."

The Italian government has just been making a seventy-reel motion picture of "The Holy Bible," from Genesis to Revelation. Now His Holiness, the Pope, has come forward as self-imposed censor of the film, declaring some portions of it are of such a character as to make it improper to produce. If the Italian officials continue in their determination to promote it on a large scale, it is likely it will be banned by the Pope. All about it next Sunday.

Will the electric chair or freedom be Clara Hamon's fate when "twelve good men and true" have her life put into their hands? A double-page fascinating recital of her tragic life, and the contentions as to its climax which will be made at the forthcoming trial.

How much is your fair face worth? Pretty Sophie Welch, who believed she had a future in the movies just ahead of her, values hers at $250,000.

AND AS I passed.
A WHITE House attendant.
SAID TO the man.
"IT'S ALL right now.
"THE PRESIDENT is driving.
"AND WE'LL hurry over."
AND I said to myself.
"PAINT HEART.
"NE'ER SAW the White House.
"I'LL GO along."
AND I did.
AND I pretended.
I KNEW the gentleman.
WITH THE hirsute face.
AND HE was pleasant.
AND VERY agreeable.
AND ALL the time.
I STAYED right with him.
AND ALL the questions.

I WOULD like to have asked.
HE ASKED them first.
AND THE four of us.
WENT ALL through the house.
AND SAW everything.
AND WHEN we parted.
AND I was going back.
TO THE Executive Offices.
THE GENTLEMAN smiled.
AND SAID to me.
"I'VE EXPLAINED to the ladies.
"YOU'RE A Secret Service man.
"AND THEY'RE greatly interested."
AND I hadn't the heart.
TO SAY I wasn't.
AND I left them.
AND ABOUT the house.
I'LL SAY for Mrs. Wilson.
THAT MRS. Harding.
CAN MOVE right in.
WITHOUT WASHING the windows
OR CLEANING the floors.
OR ANYTHING.
BUT THERE are so many pictures.
OF DEAD Presidents.
THEY'D GET on my nerves.
IF I was President.

I THANK you.

SOLITUDE

THERE are mighty few who know how to be alone.

And yet it is a most useful accomplishment. It would save us many a bitter hour and many a foolish deed if we understood it. Solitude is one of the terrors of the world. Men in solitary confinement go mad. Left to ourselves, we get bored, wretched, desperate. We are afraid to sleep in an empty house. Silence scares us. Even contention and disagreeable people are better than peace and quiet with loneliness.

But, like most other bugaboos that frighten us with their shadows, solitude is not at all bad when you go right up to it and look it in the face.

Let us, therefore, get a full face view of solitude, dismiss our panic fears, and see what it is made of. Solitude consists of me and myself. The only reason it alarms me is because myself is the one thing I am not familiar with—the one thing I do not study, examine and try. Hence when we are left alone with it we want to scream and run.

Practice Being Alone

The way to overcome this fear is to practice being alone. Everybody ought to have some time of the day when he is absolutely by himself. Then he should look into his heart and mind and get used to their contents.

It is amazing what an hour of utter silence and isolation will do for us if we seek it and endeavor to use it. At first we will be overwhelmed, perhaps, by the doubts, mysteries and questionings that arise, and will be tempted to flee for relief to any kind of companionship; men, women or books. But if we persist and just let the mind and heart boil over until they get settled by and by, there will come to us a certain quiet and contentment we find in no other way.

By solitude we learn the most practical wisdom. The man who comes from a long silence has a deeper insight into things than the ever busy person. Always in the great crises the world turns to the lonely thinker. It is men like John the Baptist that discover the burning truth that electrifies the people. Prophets all come from the desert. Poets emerge from long silent musings.

Child of Solitude

Every man who has laid a commanding hand upon the race is a child of solitude. Mahomet, Buddha, Jesus and Paul all went away for a while into the wilderness before they came back to take up their mission.

When you are worried over any matter, instead of gadding about to Tom, Dick and Harry, asking advice, lock yourself up in your closet or go out alone into the park, and let the question have its way with you. Think it out. Decide it one way and imagine the consequences. Then try another. Repeat. Get used to every move, like a good chess player, and, above all, keep asking yourself how it will affect you, in your real life, in the things you most care for, and which decision is going to make you, in the end, the better company for yourself.

I am the only person I cannot get away from. It stands me instead to make myself as agreeable as possible. It is a false and foolish humility that says, "I hate myself. I know I am no good," and all that. For we hate ourselves, just as we hate others, because we are not acquainted. "Don't introduce me to that man," said Sydney Smith, "I feel it my duty to hate him, and you can't hate a man when you know him."

Boston Fireman in 1837

Editor Boston American

A short time ago there came into my possession an old picture, tacked to the back of which was a certificate of membership in the Boston Fire Department made out to one Gay and signed by the then mayor, Samuel Eliot, and bearing the date, September 26, 1837. If you care to publish this fact and one of the many thousands who read the American can satisfy or prove his relationship to the deceased, I will gladly make such one a present of the certificate.

Earth's Face Changing

By Garrett P. Serviss

"What scientific explanation can you give in regard to matter accumulating on this planet of ours? Grass, etc., grows, decays and forms dirt. This accumulates layer over layer year after year. The question I want answered is this: Where does all this matter come from. Is it extracted from the atmosphere? Where does it come from to get into the atmosphere? —E. J. G., Bristol, Ct."

ANY new, or additional, matter accumulating on the earth must, of course, come from outside. We know that a certain amount of such matter does come in the form of meteoric dust and perhaps of substances in the gaseous state. But, it is not from this that vegetation to any perceptible extent obtains the materials for its growth.

They come ultimately from the earth's own substance, which includes the gases of the air. An extreme estimate of the quantity of matter added to the earth each year from outer space would be 200,000 tons. That is only one-thirty quadrillionth of the total mass of our globe, and in a million years the accumulation would be but one-thirty billionth of the earth's mass.

Cannot Be Changed

It has been calculated that at the present rate of downfall of meteoric matter on the earth the rotation rate cannot be changed by the increase of mass as much as a single second in a hundred million years.

So it can only be the substance of the earth itself that furnishes the matter for the accumulations of which you speak. The earth is continually burying the heavier objects on its surface under shifting deposits of soil, formed by the decay not only of vegetation but of the rocks themselves.

In Usual Manner

These things would go on just the same if there were never any accessions of fresh matter brought to the earth, and, as already said, such accessions are too slight in any case to make a perceptible difference in the extent of the changes. There will be no rest in this regard until the earth's interior becomes as quiescent as the interior of the moon, where no play of internal energies is now to be witnessed.

It is interesting to reflect that the earth has a kind of life whose extinction will mean the extinction of the animals and plants dwelling on its surface, for it is due to the incessant changes going on upon it and to the continual making and remaking of the soil that covers it that organisms are able to exist on this planet. A dead tree may still support some kinds of inhabitants—predaceous and saprophytic species—but not so a dead world.

Under the Surface

WE envy other men who seem
To have so much that gives them pride;
But there is milk below the cream;
Mud makes the bottom of the stream;
The house may have a rotten beam
That looks so strong outside.

One Comfort

THEY'RE fighting for the offices that Harding has to fill;
How sad a thing it is that there are many spoilsmen still;
But let's be hoping for the best and striving to be glad;
Things can't be worse than they have been—they may not be as bad.

IT CAN BE OVERWORKED

A man always has the right to change his opinion, but it is hard to have confidence in a man who is always exorcising that right.

CUTTING DOWN HIS VISITING LIST

Lloyd George threatens never to go to Paris again. He isn't likely to go to Cork any more, either.

IT'S A TROUBLESOME EXISTENCE

The man who used to boast that he could give up drinking whenever he wished to do so is now carrying a bottle in his hip pocket and worrying every time the conductor happens to glance at him.

WORKING UP ANOTHER SCARE

It is predicted that the price of bread may come down, but speculators who want to increase the price of wheat are trying to make us believe that the 10-cent loaf and the end of the world will arrive at the same time.
